46 Seek 12 County Offices

Candidates Will Intensify Campaigns For Primary

Forty-six candidates for 12 Columbiana County offices are expected to begin campaigning in earnest soon for the May 3 primaries, which are only a month away.

Twenty - four Democrats and 22 Republicans will take to the field seeking party nomination that will entitle them to run in the Nov. 2 general election.

Both parties' fields were drawn up in final form Feb. 3, the last day to file for the primaries. Each party will nominate two for state representative, two for county commissioner and one each for sheriff, recorder, probate judge, clerk of courts, prosecuting attorney, treasurer, engineer and coroner.

Field of 9 For GOP

Republicans have a field of nine seeking two nominations for commissioner and five candidates for a pair of nominations for state representatives. Democrats have a seven-way race for the two commissioner nominations and five bidding for the state representative posts.

Columbiana County also will have a voice in electing an 18th District congressman and a second state senator from the 20th-22nd District. A precinct committeeman will be elected by each party in each of the county's 152 precincts. The precinct representatives comprise the county central committee of each party.

The wide-open GOP field for commissioner includes:

The Republican field for state representative is comprised of: Rep. Clarence L. (Dutch) Wetzel of Lisbon, seeking a sixth term; Atty. Delmar T. O'Hara, 245 Highland Ave., Wellsville, who served two consecutive terms in the assembly from 1951 to 1955; I. J. Vorndran, 340 Green Ln., who retired a year ago after 16 years as county auditor; J. Crash Kills Girl, Injures Companions

Teen-Age Driver In 'Poor' Condition; Friend Termed 'Fair'

County 1960 Traffic Toll
8 KILLED
This date in 1959—7 Killed!
'DON'T DRIVE LIKE 60'

A Salineville girl was killed instantly and two teen-age companions were injured badly when their car crashed over an embankment on Route 164 near Salineville Friday at 6:50 p. m. about an hour before she was to appear in the Senior Class play at Salineville High School.

Meanwhile, an East Liverpool teen-ager was hospitalized and another injured in a one - car crash on Route 267 near Swaney Air port about 1:50 a. m. today.

The Lisbon State Highway Patrol said Miss Bernadine Mae Boals, 18, daughter of Wilbur and Dorothy Boals of Station Hill, Salineville R. D. 1, died of a fractured skull in the Route 164 crash about 2½ miles north of Salineville.

Officers said the girl was a passenger in a car driven by John Smith, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nolan Smith of North St., Salineville, who is in "poor" condition today at City Hospital with lacerations of the mouth and elbow, a possible head injury and shock.

Another companion, Ronald Giannone, 16, son of Mrs. Helen Thompson, 190 E. Main St., Salineville, is in "fair" condition at the hospital with a deep laceration of the right eye.

The patrol said Smith's 1955 sedan left the highway, went over a 15-foot embankment and overturned on its top in a small stream. The car was demolished. The accident still is under investigation.

Her death marks the eighth traffic fatality in Columbiana County this year compared with seven for the same period in 1959.

Miss Boals, a senior, was to appear in the cast of "The Egg And I," which was scheduled for 8 p. m. Giannone's brother, Jerry Giannone, also is a member of the cast.

It is believed they were en route to pick up a girl friend of Miss Boals. The audience had started to assemble for the play when word was received of the accident. Some of the students went to the scene to see if they could offer aid and returned to the school with official word of the tragedy.

The play was then postponed immediately for an indefinite period. Her parents were in the audience when the word was announced.

Both Smith and Giannone are juniors. Both are athletes and Giannone is a star basketball and football player.

Miss Boals was born Dec. 17, 1941, at Salineville. She was a member and organist at the Bethel Presbyterian Church.

Besides her parents, survivors include a brother Larry Boals, stationed with the Army at Ft. Dix, N. J., and her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Ethel Smith of Salineville.

Services will be held Tuesday at 2 p. m. at the church by the Rev. Ralph Johnson, assisted by the Rev. Joseph Varner. Burial will be in Bethel Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Kerr Funeral Home in Salineville Sunday evening and Monday afternoon and evening.

Landslide At Industry Halts Traffic Briefly

Traffic returned to normal about 9:15 p. m. and the cleanup continued today. Industry Police Chief E. J. Hineman reported one boulder weighed about 10 tons. The slide came from a hillside and rock ledge which towers about 300 feet above the road.

CANCER DRIVE STARTS. Mayor Bert H. Goodballet and Cindy Bennett help kick off the annual drive for funds for the fight against cancer. A first grader at St. Aloysious Parochial School, Cindy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bennett of W. 6th St., and has been treated at the eye institute of the Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center in New York for cancer of the eye. Foes Of IBOP Building Plans Ask Court Stay

Group Seeks Order For Referendum On $337,000 Project

A suit seeking to prevent the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters from constructing a new $337,000 headquarters building on Route 7 near Beaver Local High School and compelling officers to submit the question to a vote of the trade was filed Friday afternoon in Common Pleas Court at Lisbon.

Six members of a "referendum committee," which has been attempting to force a trade referendum, brought the action, alleging the IBOP officers acted "without proper authority" in purchasing the 10-acre tract, allocating funds and accepting bids.

The petitioners ask for a temporary and permanent injunction and for a writ of mandamus to halt the project until the court can air the issues.

The officers also "improperly rejected" petitions from five local unions asking the trade referendum, the suit alleges.

The plaintiffs include James M. Duffy, former IBOP president, Frank Duffy, W. H. Young, Austin G. MacKinzie, and Lawrence Findlay of East Liverpool and Floyd B. Jividen of Newell.

A hearing on the suit has been scheduled Friday, April 29, before Judge Joel H. Sharp at Lisbon.

E. L. Wheatley, IBOP president, said today he has not been served in the suit and said the union will go ahead with breaking ground for construction at a ceremony at 11 a. m. Monday on the 10-acre tract in the vicinity of the Beaver Local Schools.

The building program was authorized by delegates at the union's 1959 convention in Montreal but the dissident group has been seeking to force the referendum.

Eleven local unions enacted resolutions requesting a vote of the trade on the building program but the IBOP's Executive Board ruled out five. It said at least eight locals must submit valid resolutions before a referendum can be called.

Contracts with the low bidders on construction of the headquarters building, which will include a printing plant for the Potters Herald, official union newspaper, and job plant, have been signed

Flood Victims Await Further Drop In River

NEW CUMBERLAND — The muddy Ohio River edged slowly back towards its channel today as some 200 residents waited for it to recede enough to return to their homes for "Operation Cleanup."

A weekend of pumping out basements and cleaning away mud left when the river rose to above flood stage Thursday faces families who live in low - lying areas covered for two days by backwater.

The river crested at an even 36 feet Friday morning at 11— about two feet above flood stage.

Dam 9 said the river remained stationary until 3 p. m. yesterday when it began falling at the rate of one - tenth of a foot an hour.

The "big runoff" continued through the night and today the water had disappeared from a section of State Route 2 near the Dump Bridge which was closed Thursday midnight.

The backwater covered low-lying areas of the village and inundated the basements and some first floors of about 40 homes. Some returned to their homes today to begin cleaning up.

The dam reported the river stage at 9 a. m. today was 32.5 feet. Flood stage is 34.5 feet.

Stuttler Case Reversed On Technicality

Appellate Ruling Cites No Evidence Of Burglary At 'Night'

The 7th District Court's recent dismissal of a conviction of Louis (Mike) Stuttler for burglary of the Burbick Hardware Co. store in 1954 was based on the court's belief there was insufficient of evidence showing the alleged offense occurred in the night season.

The Appellate Court Monday directed the dismissal be entered on the docket for Stuttler, former city police officer who was found guilty by a Common Pleas Court jury in December 1958.

In an opinion received at Lisbon Friday, the court said, "Upon a thorough and minute examination of the bill of exceptions we find that the record is barren of any evidence whatsoever of an important element in this offense; to wit, 'in the night season.'

"The nearest approach in the evidence having a remote bearing of night season was in Don Burbick's testimony that the store closed Wednesday noon and did not open until Thursday morning

The officers also "improperly rejected" petitions from five local unions asking the trade referendum, the suit alleges.

The plaintiffs include James M. Duffy, former IBOP president, Frank Duffy, W. H. Young, Austin G. MacKinzie, and Lawrence Findlay of East Liverpool and Floyd B. Jividen of Newell.

A hearing on the suit has been scheduled Friday, April 29, before Judge Joel H. Sharp at Lisbon.

E. L. Wheatley, IBOP president, said today he has not been served in the suit and said the union will go ahead with breaking ground for construction at a ceremony at 11 a. m. Monday on the 10-acre tract in the vicinity of the Beaver Local Schools.

The building program was authorized by delegates at the union's 1959 convention in Montreal but the dissident group has been seeking to force the referendum.

Eleven local unions enacted resolutions requesting a vote of the trade on the building program but the IBOP's Executive Board ruled out five. It said at least eight locals must submit valid resolutions before a referendum can be called.

Contracts with the low bidders on construction of the headquarters building, which will include a printing plant for the Potters Herald, official union newspaper, and job plant, have been signed

Flood Victims Await Further Drop In River

NEW CUMBERLAND — The muddy Ohio River edged slowly back towards its channel today as some 200 residents waited for it to recede enough to return to their homes for "Operation Cleanup."

A weekend of pumping out basements and cleaning away mud left when the river rose to above flood stage Thursday faces families who live in low - lying areas covered for two days by backwater.

The river crested at an even 36 feet Friday morning at 11— about two feet above flood stage.

Dam 9 said the river remained stationary until 3 p. m. yesterday when it began falling at the rate of one - tenth of a foot an hour.

The "big runoff" continued through the night and today the water had disappeared from a section of State Route 2 near the Dump Bridge which was closed Thursday midnight.

The backwater covered low-lying areas of the village and inundated the basements and some first floors of about 40 homes. Some returned to their homes today to begin cleaning up.

The dam reported the river stage at 9 a. m. today was 32.5 feet. Flood stage is 34.5 feet.

Stuttler Case Reversed On Technicality

Appellate Ruling Cites No Evidence Of Burglary At 'Night'

The 7th District Court's recent dismissal of a conviction of Louis (Mike) Stuttler for burglary of the Burbick Hardware Co. store in 1954 was based on the court's belief there was insufficient of evidence showing the alleged offense occurred in the night season.

The Appellate Court Monday directed the dismissal be entered on the docket for Stuttler, former city police officer who was found guilty by a Common Pleas Court jury in December 1958.

In an opinion received at Lisbon Friday, the court said, "Upon a thorough and minute examination of the bill of exceptions we find that the record is barren of any evidence whatsoever of an important element in this offense; to wit, 'in the night season.'

"The nearest approach in the evidence having a remote bearing of night season was in Don Burbick's testimony that the store closed Wednesday noon and did not open until Thursday morning

Beaver Will Return 1937 Murder Suspect

BEAVER — Vencenzo Colantonio, 65, waived extradition Friday in Omaha to return here for trial in the murder of Tony DiGirolamo, 47, in Aliquippa almost 23 years ago.

Colantonia, under the name of Gino Di Felice, lived quietly and worked for a plumbing contractor in Omaha after fleeing Aliquippa in 1937. He was arrested after he applied recently for citizenship and naturalization authorities found notice of a murder indictment against him in Beaver.

W. L. Ambrose, chief Beaver County probation officer, and Russell Meskow, chief of county detectives, will leave Monday to return the prisoner. A bench warrant was issued by Judge Robert McCreary who was district attorney when the indictment was returned. Colantonia claims he shot in self defense in the slaying in June 1937.

He was elected to his first term as mayor in 1944 and for part of the term held the dual posts of mayor and coroner.

Mr. Devon was elected to his second term as mayor in 1950 and suffered a heart seizure shortly before taking office. He was hospitalized a few months later with another attack.

How To Lose Confidence

Whatever Prime Minister Macmillan thinks he took back to England with him after his visit with President Eisenhower and other U. S. officials is blurred, if the real purpose of his visit was to talk about nuclear testing.

The U.S.-British statement issued after the talks at Camp David yields no clues. When it is analyzed, it says nothing that can be pinned down as either a fact or a firm hope.

When the whole fuzzy discussion of nuclear testing is taken into consideration, it looks like the ideal way to lose public confidence. In the first place, no American can take seriously in his own thoughts a proposal to take Russia at its word in a matter of this kind. In the second place, no American can take his own government at its word when it implies it has no further need of nuclear testing. Surely not everything has been learned about nuclear energy that will have to be found out in the years ahead.

THERE IS a gnawing suspicion that the subject is being shifted from science, where it belongs, into politics, where it doesn't belong. It was shifted there in the 1956 presidential campaign by Adlai Stevenson. Long before that it had been shifted into international politics by a Russian-inspired campaign to create worldwide fear of radioactive poisoning.

It is not a happy thought that the United States might be steered into a repetition of the naval disarmament hoax that let a potential enemy, Japan, beef up its fighting power while the U.S. Navy was being reduced before the outbreak of World War II. That could be the effect of agreeing to suspension of nuclear testing with a government like Russia, which is not bound by the same principles that make treaties between Britain and the United States meaningful.

WHEN AMERICANS learn that their highest officials are meeting with high officials of other governments to talk about such possibilities, they are puzzled. They are unable to follow the negotiations and to make sense out of the official reports because they cannot make any sense out of the idea.

They have a great fear that something might be done to create an illusion of international security that would soothe men of good will while men of bad redoubled their efforts.

If that part of Prime Minister Macmillan's purpose in coming here was to be soothing—the mission was a waste of time. Americans were never more confused—and unsoothed—about what it is that they and the British are supposed to do while the French, Russians, Red Chinese and who knows who else may be getting ready to do something else.

We're Never What We Used To Be

One of the biting ironies nipping at the heels of all adults who discuss the problems of youth is the evidence that the problems exist only in their own minds.

Take the problem of physical unfitness, for example. It came up in a presidential press conference last Wednesday, in connection with the White House Conference on Children and Youth.

President Eisenhower declared what has become a commonplace declaration, that young people are unfit because they do not have to do the things their ancestors had to do, such as walking to school. "Our mode of life," he said, "has given us something to overcome."

This is part of the conventional wisdom of the times—this certainty that the rising generation isn't as tough as the declining generation, or as generations now dead that tackled life in the raw and fought it to a standstill, barehanded. Ask any oldster.

But do not ask people who know what they're talking about, because the rising generation is taller, heavier, stronger, more agile and with a much longer life expectancy than any preceding generation. Not only that, but its ablest members are smarter, more adaptable to changing environments and more teachable, with vastly more to learn, than any of its predecessors.

This will not discourage adults from bemoaning everything about the younger generation at the next meeting to discuss its shortcomings, but it's the truth.

People are not, of course, what they used to be. They never were. To hear any oldster tell it, everybody used to be 10 feet high, strong as a horse, smart as a fox, with life everlasting built into his body and a searchlight of truth set into the middle of his forehead like a sealed beam headlight.

No One Can Eat An Average

One of the valuable byproducts of the census will be up-to-date information about employment and its bugaboo companion, joblessness. A special Senate committee studying unemployment problems says what many others have been saying lately, that chronic unemployment is a major problem and growing worse.

The problem is partly hidden by the use of averages to convey information about employment and unemployment. Thus, at present unemployment is a little less than 5 per cent of total employment, considered a satisfactory ratio. But a 5 per cent average of unemployment does not show that in some localities as many as 25 per cent of the potential workers are chronically unemployed.

These jobless people cannot eat averages which conceal their existence as dependents in a society that boasts with good reason of its living standards and productivity. The Senate committee explains it is concerned not only because the jobless exist today but because tomorrow and the next day a steady increase in population on one hand and a trend to automation on the other hand will be adding to their number and may change the ratio between employment and unemployment for the worse.

Though the committee's members are not of one mind about means of dealing with the problem, they are of one mind about the problem. It exists. It must be understood before it can be solved. And efforts to solve it are imperative. The United States cannot afford large groups of chronically unemployed citizens. It must act in one way and another to give them a chance to work.

One suggestion made by the Republican minority of the committee is to move government agencies to chronically depressed places, apparently on the theory that the inexorable growth of a government agency would blot up unemployment as fast as it appeared. That would be vastly better than to set up bigger pipelines of government relief, which appears to be the master design of the committee's Democratic majority.

Beyond Reach

The Treasury Department has promised to launch an investigation to determine whether or not a hoard of $100,000 in gold coins buried in a Chicago backyard was retained illegally by the owner.

Gold was withdrawn from circulation as currency in 1934 and a ban was placed on it at that time by the government. News stories have shed no light as to how the owner, Stanley R. Pierce, came to have possession of the treasure. Pierce, a widower, died last Dec. 25.

He is beyond the reach of the law. Perhaps the Treasury Department should be satisfied that he didn't take it with him and let it go at that.

The Once Over

Some questions the Census Bureau forgot to ask:

1. Do you own this home or do you lack the knowledge of arithmetic to know for certain?
2. Do you rent any rooms, and, if not, how do you meet payments on the auto?
3. How many people live in this house? Give names of those hanging around.
4. If the lot is larger than 30 by 30, how much time is devoted to fighting crabgrass?
5. Give number of closets and state why the old man can't find one for his clothes.
6. How many bathrooms are there and does the bathtub plug fit?
7. Is this a dream house or one of the old-fashioned well-built homes with a dry cellar and a curved board in the construction?
8. Do you own the dishwashing machine and, if not, how long before you will be able to wash the dishes without help from the finance company?
9. Have you searched the house and given a correct number of occupants or is it possible Uncle Lemuel is still camping out in a guest room?
10. Do husband and wife live together in this residence or does it only seem so?
11. List dogs and state why they get more attention than the "old man."
12. Why doesn't somebody fix your front door bell?
13. Does family cook out much or is proper care given to digestion?
14. Have you a child who has just been given a sports car and is asking, "What about a speedboat?"
15. Give number of children and state who referees fights over what TV program to tune into.

The Power Of Faith

By Howard Brodie

In the Steps of Christ

A sense of awe stole over me when I stood in the ruins of what was once the Praetorium of Pontius Pilate in Jerusalem. The circular diagram of a game once played by Roman soldiers with condemned prisoners still is traceable on the pavement. Nearby I was shown the spot where, it is said, Jesus stood before Pilate while the mob across the pavement screamed: "Crucify him!" It was from the spot that Jesus, bearing his cross, went forth to Calvary where, mocked and nailed to the cross, He pleaded through his anguish: "Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do." (Luke 23:34)

Maloney Still Gets Union Pay

By Victor Riesel

Ransoming a union is a costly business these days. It has already cost the new leaders of the Operating Engineers considerably more than $110,000 paid to the former owner of record, William Maloney.

Victor Riesel

It can be revealed here that though this millionaire with 11 secret safety deposit vaults resigned under McClellan committee fire on Feb. 14, 1958, he has been and is scheduled to receive $55,000 a year and expenses for life.

When Maloney quit, as president, it was revealed that under him the union supported a private navy and air force for him and his colleagues — namely a yacht and planes.

No one really knows how much he took from the hard-working men known as operating engineers and hoisters. The McClellan racket breakers said they found he received a total of $742,228.20 in seven years.

SEN. McCLELLAN, controlling himself so he would not lose his characteristic devotion to understatement, said of Maloney:

"The evidence shows that Maloney had thousands of dollars paid for his personal expenses such as new cars and television sets and air conditioning units and various other things. . .

"Maloney also milked the International Union by the submission of double and in some instances triple expenses which went a long way toward making Maloney the wealthy man he is today with homes in Chicago and Miami, a fully equipped luxury yacht and a furnished apartment in Washington, D. C., at the union's expense.

"He now maintains 10 and possibly 11 safety deposit boxes in banks and other financial institutions, the contents of which he is unwilling to reveal. I imagine a lot of dues-paying members would like to see the inside of those boxes. . ."

Despite this selfishness above the line of duty even in the old Operating Engineers' regime, the constitution says the union must keep Maloney on as general president emeritus and continue to pay him $55,000 out of the members' dues.

As emeritus, he has special privileges and makes himself convival at union functions.

This was not all Maloney cost the union. In 10 years he will automatically cost the Operating Engineers another million.

Here's how: The union's new headquarters at 1125 17th St. NW, was originally scheduled to be eight stories high. When it was completed, it was discovered that the structure had lost two stories somewhere. It was only six stories high, though it cost some $2,300,000 compared, say, with the International Assn. of Machinists' new building which cost 2½ million dollars. The Machinists' building is 10 stories high and of equal or better material.

THE MYSTERY of the missing floors was solved when it was discovered that Maloney had ordered them replaced by a lush penthouse for himself and company. If the two additional floors had been built, according to original plans, they would have brought the Engineers a rental of $80,000 a year.

Yet despite all the "due-unto-Caesar" attitude of Maloney towards 302,000 working men, the union must continue to pay him unless the constitution is changed at the Operating Engineers 26th convention opening in the Hotel Americana, Bal Harbour, Fla.; on April 11.

Maloney clings to his tithes despite the sweep of sentiment against him.

It must in all fairness be reported that the present regime under Joe Delaney is revamping rules which will give all members the right to vote. They haven't had it before, especially in the new locals organized in the Texas and Oklahoma oil industry.

Furthermore, there will be only nominations for office at this convention. Officials will be elected sometime this summer by a secret mail ballot.

From now on it will be up to the rank-and-file to see that their union doesn't return to the days when title to their personal skills and bread and butter were in the hands of one who literally lived on caviar and stuffed rare hen served in princely surroundings.

Letters To The Editor

I am a sophomore in East Liverpool High School and am writing about the article which appeared in the March 31 issue of The Review, which was about the new traffic lights which are to be installed in the East End area.

In my opinion, this amount of $3,500 could be used in a much more beneficial and reasonable way. A wonderful project which could be started would be a youth center where the young people could go and have fun. Or even a project of reconstructing playgrounds would seem more worthwhile than traffic lights in East End.

I think the teenagers and young people in East Liverpool should be considered more than they are. People are always complaining and wondering what can be done to prevent juvenile delinquency, yet when there is a little money which could be used for those purposes, it is always put "to better use in order to make more money."

It seems to me that we, as young people, are expected to be good, decent, moral citizens, and comply with the rules of the city; which should be done. Yet where, besides the few extra-curricular activities the school sponsors, can we develop these worthwhile aims?

Not very long ago, the Y-Vodrey Lot on Bradshaw Ave. was to be used as a playground and not to be sold. The next thing we knew, it was sold to Loblaws. Every decent play area there has been taken by adults.

I realize that people have to make money and buildings and stores have to be built, but why couldn't we, as young citizens, have a decent place where we could go and know it would be well-sponsored and of good moral character?

BEVERLY COUCH

This letter is written concerning the traffic light problem in the East End area. We are students in high school.

We feel there is no need to make the East End area into a speedway as proposed by the Finance Committee of Council, which wishes to spend $3,500 on this project.

The undersigned propose that this money be spent for more worthy causes, such as street repairs, playgrounds, new equipment and general city maintenance.

Mr. K Quotes Bible

By David Lawrence

Red Leader Misses Scripture Meaning

Nikita Khrushchev is a politician and, when he wishes to curry favor with an audience in a foreign land, he goes so far as to give Christianity a qualified endorsement even though he is a professed atheist himself.

David Lawrence

But while Mr. Khrushchev is willing to quote the scriptures, he indicates that he doesn't really understand them. It may be a hopeful sign that the Soviet Premier has begun to discuss Christian principles. In an off-the-cuff press conference in France, the Soviet ruler said:

"There is much in Christianity which is common to us Communists. I only disagree on one point and that was when Christ said, 'If I am struck on one cheek, I will turn the other.' I believe in another principle: if I am hit on the left cheek, I hit them back on the right cheek so strongly that the head may fall off. This is my only difference with Christ."

This so-called "difference" emphasizes something that is the root of the world's tension today. If Mr. Khrushchev could only understand the teachings of Jesus and accept them in their real context, the whole world would benefit from the change that could ensue.

Here's what Jesus said, as rendered in the Book of Luke:

"Love your enemies, do good to them which hate you. Bless them that curse you, and pray for them which despitefully use you.

"And unto him that smiteth thee on the one cheek offer also the other . . . . and as ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise."

THIS HAS BEEN known for ages as the "Golden Rule." In it is embodied the doctrine of conciliation in human disputes.

"Turning the other cheek" is, of course, figurative and there is nothing in the scriptures which belies the right of self-defense or self-preservation in combat. Rather, the advice given is related to the highest ideals of human conduct — a sense of forbearance with a disputant and an unwillingness to resort to force to settle a controversy with one's friend or neighbor.

Indeed, a formula for conciliation and the orderly settlement of civil disputes was outlined by Jesus in the Book of Matthew as follows:

"Moreover if thy brother shall trespass against thee, go and tell him his fault between thee and him alone: If he shall hear thee, thou hast gained thy brother. But if he will not hear thee, then take with thee one or two more, that in the mouth of two or three witnesses every word may be established. And if he shall neglect to hear them, tell it unto the church: But if he neglect to hear the church, let him be unto thee as a heathen man and a publican."

THE FINAL PENALTY recommended was, to be sure, ostracism by the community — a resort to moral force as a means of eventually persuading the sinner to listen to the voice of conscience.

There is nothing in the scriptures which condones an evildoer or assures him that he may escape punishment for his acts. On the contrary, the wrongdoer is urged to be watchful, lest he be imprisoned for violating the law. In the Book of Matthew, this advice is given by Jesus to the man who knows in his heart he has done wrong:

"Agree with thine adversary quickly, while thou art in the way with him; lest at any time the adversary deliver thee to the judge, and the judge deliver thee to the officer, and thou be cast into prison. Verily I say unto thee, thou shalt by no means come out thence, till thou hast paid the uttermost farthing."

Nor was Jesus a believer in surrender to those who preach evil and distrust of each other. He said: "Beware of false prophets, which come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly they are ravening wolves."

To many people in the world today, the words of Nikita Khrushchev are not accepted as sincere because they come from a man whose past deeds indicate that he believes "the end always justifies the means" — a man who would ask his adversary to disarm completely without giving any acceptable assurances that he will do likewise.

WHAT IS THE ANSWER? Jesus said: "Pray for them."

Maybe the Soviet Premier doesn't know that many people in the world today do pray for him in the hope that he and his followers will abandon their antheism and their unscrupulous rule over the oppressed.

Hundreds of people said so in letters commenting on an editorial by this writer entitled "Prayers for Khrushchev," which appeared in "U.S. News & World Report" on Oct. 5, 1959, just after the Soviet Premier visited the United States. It read in part as follows:

"All of us must come to learn that there is indeed a substitute for the hates and the passions that have led so often to 'organized murder.' It is human love. It can permeate nations as well as their rulers. And in that spirit, we pray for the transgressors in the Kremlin in the hope that they may be inspired to take to heart the words of the Gospel:

" 'The time is fulfilled, and the kingdom of heaven is at hand: Repent ye, and believe the gospel. Repent, for the kingdom of God is at hand. . . .

" 'Blessed are the meek, for they shall inherit the earth.'

" 'Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be filled.

" 'Blessed are the merciful, for they shall obtain mercy.

" Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God.

" 'Blessed are the peacemakers, for they shall be called the children of God.' "

'Jumbo Jamboree'

By J. F. Ter Horst

Those Nixon-lovin' Republicans are planning a whoopee prevue of their Chicago convention and, judging by the plot, both may be more fun than a barrel of Democratic candidates.

The capital affair will start with a box supper of fried chicken and potato salad for 7,000 "delegates" from all the states. It will wind up with campaign talks by President Eisenhower and his chosen heir, Vice President Nixon.

But in between, there will be oriental dancers, strolling Italian troubadors, funnyman Sam Levinson, bandleader Sammy Kaye, Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona — and much, much more.

"JUMBO JAMBOREE," the GOP planners have dubbed it. It's booked for Washington's Uline Arena Monday night, and the place will be decked out like a presidential convention, including state placards.

It figures to be the biggest bang for two bucks that party faithful will receive before the 1960 ticket-picking session in Chicago this summer.

Going in, everybody gets a red-white-and-blue Indian feather and head band.

When GOP assistant chairman Clare B. Williams tendered a personal invitation to the White House, she came away quoting the president as saying, "that sounds like fun!"

So they picked up the beat from the boss and commissioned a catchy song by Johnny Lehmann, the Tin Pan Alley tunesmith. Among others, he did the words to the current teen-age hit, "Tender Love and Care."

The GOP song is called "Good Time Train," and it might be a sort of Nixon bandwagon set to rails. Snatches of the lyrics:

The Good Time Train is waitin' at the station,
Your ballot is the ticket if you want prosperity. . . .
For good times now and always, and peace among free men,
We'll keep the Grand Old Party in the White House, once again.

Sponsoring the powwow are the National Republican Committee, the Senate and House GOP Campaign Committees and the Republican Organization of the District of Columbia.

ABOUT HALF the crowd will be official delegates from around the country to the eighth annual Republican Women's Conference, being held here April 2-5. The rest are coming in by bus caravan, train, plane and car from Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky, GOP national chairman; Goldwater and Rep. William E. Miller of New York will squeeze in three-minute speeches. Cabinet members, administration notables and other GOP leaders on Capitol Hill will be there.

So will gospel singer Mahalia Jackson, operatic soprano Roberta Peters, the Ralph Hunter Choir and those oriental dancers.

"The dancers do it with bells," a source said, enunciating carefully. "There's no 'Y' in that word."

Hunter's Troupe, it was learned, may pan the Democrats by having a go at New York's Tammany Hall. It is rehearsing two numbers, "Politics and Poker" and "The Little Tin Box," both from the Broadway musical, "Fiorello."

Food for the affair includes 7,000 chicken breasts, 200 gallons of potato salad, 1,300 pounds of pastry and apples for turnovers and truckloads of soft drinks.

How To Lose Confidence

Whatever Prime Minister Macmillan thinks he took back to England with him after his visit with President Eisenhower and other U. S. officials is blurred, if the real purpose of his visit was to talk about nuclear testing.

The U.S.-British statement issued after the talks at Camp David yields no clues. When it is analyzed, it says nothing that can be pinned down as either a fact or a firm hope.

When the whole fuzzy discussion of nuclear testing is taken into consideration, it looks like the ideal way to lose public confidence. In the first place, no American can take seriously in his own thoughts a proposal to take Russia at its word in a matter of this kind. In the second place, no American can take his own government at its word when it implies it has no further need of nuclear testing. Surely not everything has been learned about nuclear energy that will have to be found out in the years ahead.

THERE IS a gnawing suspicion that the subject is being shifted from science, where it belongs, into politics, where it doesn't belong. It was shifted there in the 1956 presidential campaign by Adlai Stevenson. Long before that it had been shifted into international politics by a Russian-inspired campaign to create worldwide fear of radioactive poisoning.

It is not a happy thought that the United States might be steered into a repetition of the naval disarmament hoax that let a potential enemy, Japan, beef up its fighting power while the U.S. Navy was being reduced before the outbreak of World War II. That could be the effect of agreeing to suspension of nuclear testing with a government like Russia, which is not bound by the same principles that make treaties between Britain and the United States meaningful.

WHEN AMERICANS learn that their highest officials are meeting with high officials of other governments to talk about such possibilities, they are puzzled. They are unable to follow the negotiations and to make sense out of the official reports because they cannot make any sense out of the idea.

They have a great fear that something might be done to create an illusion of international security that would soothe men of good will while men of bad redoubled their efforts.

If that part of Prime Minister Macmillan's purpose in coming here was to be soothing—the mission was a waste of time. Americans were never more confused—and unsoothed—about what it is that they and the British are supposed to do while the French, Russians, Red Chinese and who knows who else may be getting ready to do something else.

We're Never What We Used To Be

One of the biting ironies nipping at the heels of all adults who discuss the problems of youth is the evidence that the problems exist only in their own minds.

Take the problem of physical unfitness, for example. It came up in a presidential press conference last Wednesday, in connection with the White House Conference on Children and Youth.

President Eisenhower declared what has become a commonplace declaration, that young people are unfit because they do not have to do the things their ancestors had to do, such as walking to school. "Our mode of life," he said, "has given us something to overcome."

This is part of the conventional wisdom of the times—this certainty that the rising generation isn't as tough as the declining generation, or as generations now dead that tackled life in the raw and fought it to a standstill, barehanded. Ask any oldster.

But do not ask people who know what they're talking about, because the rising generation is taller, heavier, stronger, more agile and with a much longer life expectancy than any preceding generation. Not only that, but its ablest members are smarter, more adaptable to changing environments and more teachable, with vastly more to learn, than any of its predecessors.

This will not discourage adults from bemoaning everything about the younger generation at the next meeting to discuss its shortcomings, but it's the truth.

People are not, of course, what they used to be. They never were. To hear any oldster tell it, everybody used to be 10 feet high, strong as a horse, smart as a fox, with life everlasting built into his body and a searchlight of truth set into the middle of his forehead like a sealed beam headlight.

No One Can Eat An Average

One of the valuable byproducts of the census will be up-to-date information about employment and its bugaboo companion, joblessness. A special Senate committee studying unemployment problems says what many others have been saying lately, that chronic unemployment is a major problem and growing worse.

The problem is partly hidden by the use of averages to convey information about employment and unemployment. Thus, at present unemployment is a little less than 5 per cent of total employment, considered a satisfactory ratio. But a 5 per cent average of unemployment does not show that in some localities as many as 25 per cent of the potential workers are chronically unemployed.

These jobless people cannot eat averages which conceal their existence as dependents in a society that boasts with good reason of its living standards and productivity. The Senate committee explains it is concerned not only because the jobless exist today but because tomorrow and the next day a steady increase in population on one hand and a trend to automation on the other hand will be adding to their number and may change the ratio between employment and unemployment for the worse.

Though the committee's members are not of one mind about means of dealing with the problem, they are of one mind about the problem. It exists. It must be understood before it can be solved. And efforts to solve it are imperative. The United States cannot afford large groups of chronically unemployed citizens. It must act in one way and another to give them a chance to work.

One suggestion made by the Republican minority of the committee is to move government agencies to chronically depressed places, apparently on the theory that the inexorable growth of a government agency would blot up unemployment as fast as it appeared. That would be vastly better than to set up bigger pipelines of government relief, which appears to be the master design of the committee's Democratic majority.

Beyond Reach

The Treasury Department has promised to launch an investigation to determine whether or not a hoard of $100,000 in gold coins buried in a Chicago backyard was retained illegally by the owner.

Gold was withdrawn from circulation as currency in 1934 and a ban was placed on it at that time by the government. News stories have shed no light as to how the owner, Stanley R. Pierce, came to have possession of the treasure. Pierce, a widower, died last Dec. 25.

He is beyond the reach of the law. Perhaps the Treasury Department should be satisfied that he didn't take it with him and let it go at that.

The Once Over

Some questions the Census Bureau forgot to ask:

1. Do you own this home or do you lack the knowledge of arithmetic to know for certain?

2. Do you rent any rooms, and, if not, how do you meet payments on the auto?

3. How many people live in this house? Give names of those hanging around.

4. If the lot is larger than 30 by 30, how much time is devoted to fighting crabgrass?

5. Give number of closets and state why the old man can't find one for his clothes.

6. How many bathrooms are there and does the bathtub plug fit?

7. Is this a dream house or one of the old-fashioned well-built homes with a dry cellar and a curved board in the construction?

8. Do you own the dishwashing machine and, if not, how long before you will be able to wash the dishes without help from the finance company?

9. Have you searched the house and given a correct number of occupants or is it possible Uncle Lemuel is still camping out in a guest room?

10. Do husband and wife live together in this residence or does it only seem so?

11. List dogs and state why they get more attention than the "old man."

12. Why doesn't somebody fix your front door bell?

13. Does family cook out much or is proper care given to digestion?

14. Have you a child who has just been given a sports car and is asking, "What about a speedboat?"

15. Give number of children and state who referees fights over what TV program to tune into.

The Power Of Faith

By Howard Brodie

In the Steps of Christ

A sense of awe stole over me when I stood in the ruins of what was once the Praetorium of Pontius Pilate in Jerusalem. The circular diagram of a game once played by Roman soldiers with condemned prisoners still is traceable on the pavement. Nearby I was shown the spot where, it is said, Jesus stood before Pilate while the mob across the pavement screamed: "Crucify him!" It was from the spot that Jesus, bearing his cross, went forth to Calvary where, mocked and nailed to the cross, He pleaded through his anguish: "Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do." (Luke 23:34)

Maloney Still Gets Union Pay

By Victor Riesel

Ransoming a union is a costly business these days. It has already cost the new leaders of the Operating Engineers considerably more than $110,000 paid to the former owner of record, William Maloney.

Victor Riesel

It can be revealed here that though this millionaire with 11 secret safety deposit vaults resigned under McClellan committee fire on Feb. 14, 1958, he has been and is scheduled to receive $55,000 a year and expenses for life.

When Maloney quit, as president, it was revealed that under him the union supported a private navy and air force for him and his colleagues — namely a yacht and planes.

No one really knows how much he took from the hard-working men known as operating engineers and hoisters. The McClellan racket breakers said they found he received a total of $742,228.20 in seven years.

SEN. McCLELLAN, controlling himself so he would not lose his characteristic devotion to understatement, said of Maloney:

"The evidence shows that Maloney had thousands of dollars paid for his personal expenses such as new cars and television sets and air conditioning units and various other things. . .

"Maloney also milked the International Union by the submission of double, and in some instances triple expenses which went a long way toward making Maloney the wealthy man he is today with homes in Chicago and Miami, a fully equipped luxury yacht and a furnished apartment in Washington, D. C., at the union's expense.

"He now maintains 10 and possibly 11 safety deposit boxes in banks and other financial institutions, the contents of which he is unwilling to reveal. I imagine a lot of dues-paying members would like to see the inside of those boxes. . ."

Despite this selfishness above the line of duty even in the old Operating Engineers' regime, the constitution says the union must keep Maloney on as general president emeritus and continue to pay him $55,000 out of the members' dues.

As emeritus, he has special privileges and makes himself convival at union functions.

This was not all Maloney cost the union. In 10 years he will automatically cost the Operating Engineers another million.

Here's how: The union's new headquarters at 1125 17th St. NW, was originally scheduled to be eight stories high. When it was completed, it was discovered that the structure had lost two stories somewhere. It was only six stories high, though it cost some $2,300,000 compared, say, with the International Assn. of Machinists' new building which cost 2½ million dollars. The Machinists' building is 10 stories high and of equal or better material.

THE MYSTERY of the missing floors was solved when it was discovered that Maloney had ordered them replaced by a lush penthouse for himself and company. If the two additional floors had been built, according to original plans, they would have brought the Engineers a rental of $80,000 a year.

Yet despite all the "due-unto-Caesar" attitude of Maloney towards 302,000 working men, the union must continue to pay him unless the constitution is changed at the Operating Engineers 26th convention opening in the Hotel Americana, Bal Harbour, Fla.; on April 11.

Maloney clings to his tithes despite the sweep of sentiment against him.

It must in all fairness be reported that the present regime under Joe Delaney is revamping rules which will give all members the right to vote. They haven't had it before, especially in the new locals organized in the Texas and Oklahoma oil industry.

Furthermore, there will be only nominations for office at this convention. Officials will be elected sometime this summer by a secret mail ballot.

From now on it will be up to the rank-and-file to see that their union doesn't return to the days when title to their personal skills and bread and butter were in the hands of one who literally lived on caviar and stuffed rare hen served in princely surroundings.

Letters To The Editor

I am a sophomore in East Liverpool High School and am writing about the article which appeared in the March 31 issue of The Review, which was about the new traffic lights which are to be installed in the East End area.

In my opinion, this amount of $3,500 could be used in a much more beneficial and reasonable way. A wonderful project which could be started would be a youth center where the young people could go and have fun. Or even a project of reconstructing playgrounds would seem more worthwhile than traffic lights in East End.

I think the teenagers and young people in East Liverpool should be considered more than they are. People are always complaining and wondering what can be done to prevent juvenile delinquency, yet when there is a little money which could be used for those purposes, it is always put "to better use in order to make more money."

It seems to me that we, as young people, are expected to be good, decent, moral citizens, and comply with the rules of the city; which should be done. Yet where, besides the few extra-curricular activities the school sponsors, can we develop these worthwhile aims?

Not very long ago, the Y-Vodrey Lot on Bradshaw Ave. was to be used as a playground and not to be sold. The next thing we knew, it was sold to Loblaws. Every decent play area there has been taken by adults.

I realize that people have to make money and buildings and stores have to be built, but why couldn't we, as young citizens, have a decent place where we could go and know it would be well-sponsored and of good moral character?

This letter is written concerning the traffic light problem in the East End area. We are students in high school.

We feel there is no need to make the East End area into a speedway as proposed by the Finance Committee of Council, which wishes to spend $3,500 on this project.

The undersigned propose that this money be spent for more worthy causes, such as street repairs, playgrounds, new equipment and general city maintenance.

Mr. K Quotes Bible

Red Leader Misses Scripture Meaning

Nikita Khrushchev is a politician and, when he wishes to curry favor with an audience in a foreign land, he goes so far as to give Christianity a qualified endorsement even though he is a professed atheist himself.

David Lawrence

But while Mr. Khrushchev is willing to quote the scriptures, he indicates that he doesn't really understand them. It may be a hopeful sign that the Soviet Premier has begun to discuss Christian principles. In an off-the-cuff press conference in France, the Soviet ruler said:

"There is much in Christianity which is common to us Communists. I only disagree on one point and that was when Christ said, 'If I am struck on one cheek, I will turn the other.' I believe in another principle: If I am hit on the left cheek, I hit them back on the right cheek so strongly that the head may fall off. This is my only difference with Christ."

This so-called "difference" emphasizes something that is the root of the world's tension today. If Mr. Khrushchev could only understand the teachings of Jesus and accept them in their real context, the whole world would benefit from the change that could ensue.

Building A New Life

Quite a thrill — building a new home! Day by day you watch it take shape. And somehow, you have the feeling that this new house will bring new life for you and your family.

But building a new life isn't as simple as building a new home. One just can't move out of the drab past into a sparkling future.

The life to which conscientious men and women aspire is built on foundations that cannot be laid in a week or two. Character, courage, consecration — these are concrete evidences of faithful years in the worship and service of God.

Today, where there are new houses there are new churches — and where there are old houses there are old churches. And through the portals of all the churches pass the millions of earnest families who are serious and happy about building a new life.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

White's, American-Freed's, Gengarellas, Riverview Win

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

Gengarella's, Riverview Florists, American Billiard-Freed's and Francis White Insurance form the semi-final field as another Tri-State tournament champ will be crowned tonight at Memorial Auditorium.

Paired for tonight's two semi-final contests are Gengarellas and White's Insurance at 7:30 while American-Freed's and Riverview meet in the second game at 8 p. m.

Gengarella's, king of the Tri-State tourney for the last three years, will be shooting for its fourth straight title, a feat unprecedented in the 35 year-old history of the tournament.

Riverview Florists crushed Manchester, 67-45, American-Freed's eliminated Varsho's, 85-37, and White's Insurance reached the select circle by dumping Major TV of Steubenville, 87-69.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Champion To Be Crowned Tonight

The Riverview team, which lists Youngstown University and Westminster talent, was dealt a blow when Westminster College officials announced that Chuckie Davis, the Little All-American standout, would not be permitted to play in any post-season tourneys.

The college even refused Davis permission to play in the Olympic tryouts at Denver this week after he was chosen to the first NAIA team, the squad which upset Ohio State.

Riverview still has such standouts as Mickey Yugovich, Youngstown U's great scorer who tossed in 18 points to lead the way last night; Howie McElroy with 16 and Harold Davis with 14.

Riverview also lost the services of Lenny Nelson, former Muskingum star who injured his knee.

Gengarellas, with the addition of Joe Ashton and Dick Jones who performed with St. Francis College this past season, showed a stronger outfit.

Ashton, who stands close to the 6-foot-5 mark, paced Gengarellas with 18 points while his running mate Jones scored 11 and Maher of Steubenville College added 11. Tell topped Stockton's with 17 points.

American-Freed's, showing probably the rangiest outfit in the tourney with such standouts as Bevo Francis, Miles Witchey and Jim Tucker, rolled to an easy win over Varsho's.

Tucker led the way with 20 points while Wellsville's Vince Giles was right behind with 18 big markers.

Ted Robinson was the high man for Varsho's with 21 points.

Leading 41-34 at halftime, White's coasted through the second half. Biff Aultman and Hewko shared scoring honors for White's with 16 each while Fannon chipped in with 15.

Jack Cibulka, stellar performer at Steubenville College last season, topped Major TV with 27 markers, top single performance of the evening.

Tonight's championship game should get underway about 10 p. m., followed by the presentation of team and individual trophies.

Tiger Takes Split Decision

BOSTON (AP)—Rugged middleweight Dick Tiger wants a crack at Gene Fullmer, Paul Pender and Sugar Ray Robinson but it looks like he'll have to defend his British Empire championship first.

So said Jersey Jones Friday night after the Nigerian battler hammered out a split 10-round decision over Argentina's Victor Zalazar at the Boston Arena.

Jones, who identifies himself as Tiger's "representative," said in the dressing room "Tiger hasn't defended in just over two years."

"Jones added he had received a cable from Mickey Duff, manager of Terry Downes, for a Liverpool title match "and we may have to go over and take it."

Tiger, shorter, stockier and more muscular than his lanky South American opponent, finished strong Friday night. He dominated the first half of the fight, then had some trouble from the jabbing Zalazar before taking the offense again.

Tiger is the eighth-ranked challenger according to the National Boxing Assn. while Zalazar is unranked.

Referee Jimmy McCarron and Judge Tom McNeeley Sr., scored the fight for the winner, 99-95 and 99-94, while Judge George Flate had it even 96-96 on the Massachusetts 10 points must system. Both fighters weighed 161.

Olympic Talent Murders Records In AAU Swimming

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — America's top Olympic prospects are killing the experts with joy the way they're murdering records in the national AAU men's indoor swimming championships.

Seven races have been held the past two days, and the records have been walloped in every one of them. Seven races are left today, and anything can happen.

Five American records tumbled Friday night during which three new champions were crowned.

Among those assaulting the national standards was Bill Mulliken, Miami (Ohio), 220 - yard breaststroke, 2:34.8 from 2:36.1.

Mulliken, who the experts say is almost sure to go to the Rome Olympics, won a gold medal in this meet for the first time. Sam Hall of Ohio State, the one-meter champ, retained his crown.

Southern Cal, defending its team honors, is in front with 48 points, 17 more than the New Haven S. C. Nobody else is even close.

Curran's Capture Crown In Little Potters League

Bob Curran's made a clean sweep in the Little Potters League this season. Curran's captured the regular league title and Friday night became the tournament champion by virtue of a 30-12 victory over Hune Co.

Harry McConville, president of the Little Potters League, presented coaches Al Dawson and Lloyd Stockdale with the championship trophy following last night's contest.

The title game concluded the first season of play for the Little Potters League.

In the first period, Hune Co. kept pace with Curran's. At the end of the first quarter Curran's showed only a 9-8 lead.

However, the champs broke the game wide open in the remaining three periods.

The score at halftime showed Curran's on top, 16-9, and after three quarters it read, 26-10. Hune Co. scored only three points in the second half.

Dwayne Lacey was Curran's big gun with 12 points coming on six field goals. He scored eight of the 12 in the first half.

Vern Smith added seven markers to Curran's attack. Tim Grafton and John Barnes had four each for the losers.

John Higgins, Hune Co.'s top scorer, was limited to only one point due to the defensive work of Jimmy Jones.

In a consolation game, Coca-Cola eked out a 16-14 victory over Frank Dawson's.

Phil Fuhrer with four points was high for Coca-Cola which showed a balanced attack while Mike Goodballet dropped in six markers for Dawson's.

Jr. Tourney Lists Timken

Canton Timken High's Trojans fresh from appearing in the Ohio state basketball tournament last week in Columbus — have entered the annual Blue and White Nonpareil Club's Junior Tournament scheduled to get underway Tuesday night at Memorial Auditorium.

The Trojans, headed by All-Ohio center John Namciu, will appear under the banner of American Vitrified Products of East Liverpool. Timken won 24 in a row the past season until losing in the state semi-finals to powerful Cleveland East Tech.

Three other strong squads entered the tournament this morning while several others are expected in the fold before the deadline for entering expires tonight at midnight. Teams will be bracketed Sunday for the 13th annual tournament.

In addition to the Canton entry, other new teams include Swissvale, Pa. and Marland Heights Drugs of Weirton, the 1958 champion. Minerva High School also is in the fold.

The tournament field appears the classiest ever as earlier entries included Gengarellas (Midland High School,) Travelers Hotel (area all-stars headed by All-Ohio Dave Hunter of Salem), Brownson House of Washington (Pa.), United Steelworkers Local 1082 (Beaver Falls High School), and Fairfield-Waterford High.

"Name" stars are plentiful for the club's 1960 tournament edition. They include the great Namciu, a first team All-Ohio choice; Hunter, second team; Nick Milasnovich, a teammate on the Travelers Hotel squad; Bryan Generalovich of Farrell, and Weirton Madonna's clever All-West Virginia guard Dick Palcic of Marland Heights.

To that list can be added such standouts as big Movie Smith, Gene Lake, Nick Vuckovich and Cal Sheffield, all of Gengarellas, which will be coached by East Liverpool's Frank Chan.

Sheffield, an all-state selection for New Brighton, figures to give the Midland entry one of the strongest scoring punches of any team in the tournament. The other cagers starred for Midland's Leopards the past season.

Action will get underway Tuesday night and will continue Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Trophies will be awarded at the conclusion of Friday night's championship battle.

Ohio State Plays Consolation Tilt

By FRANK PITMAN

DENVER (AP) — Peoria's tournament-wise AAU champions and the NCAA University All-Stars, bristling with Oscar Robertson and three other All-Americas, battle tonight for the championship of the U.S. Olympic Basketball Trials.

To the winner will go at least five places, and possibly seven, on the 12-member team that will wear the Stars and Stripes in Rome this summer.

Robertson and All-America Jerry West poured in 51 points between them to bury Akron, Ohio's AAU Wingfoots 103-88 in Friday night's second round before 8,500 at the Denver Coliseum.

Peoria, winner of the 1952 Olympic trials, broke out of a 9-9 tie on the shooting of 6-6 Tom Meschery of St. Mary's (Calif) and never trailed the rest of the way in beating the NAIA small college stars 89-68.

Ohio State's NCAA champions, spilled by the NAIA club 76-69 in the first round, bounced back with an 89-79 consolation victory over the NCAA All Stars coached by Arad McCutchan.

Bartlesville, Okla., champion of the AAU's national industrial league, conquered the Armed Forces Stars 88-74 and will play Ohio State in a consolation match this afternoon. The other afternoon contest sends the Armed Forces against McCutchan's NCAA crew.

Akron and the NAIA team play in the night curtain raiser before the championship game.

The championship game sends Peoria's closely knit Cats against one of the greatest collections ever of college stars. Besides Robertson, who hit 29 points Friday night, and West, who bagged 22, the NCAA university unit includes two other Associated Press All-Americas, 6-11 Darrall Imhoff of California and Tony Jackson of St. Johns (NY).

John Havlicek swished 24 points in guiding Ohio State to its consolation triumph over the NCAA stars. All-America Jerry Lucas snared 22 rebounds and scored 15 points.

Newell had high praise for Robertson after the conquest of Akron. "Oscar was wonderful," he said. "He makes the play you need and does a magnificent job on defense." Newell termed Bellamy "a real battler."

Indians' Kiely, Tiefenauer Seek To Derail Cubs

MESA, Ariz (AP)—Bob Tiefenauer and Leo Kiely, a pair of Cleveland relief pitchers, drew the assignment of trying to snip the Chicago Cubs' Cactus League victory string at eight games today.

The Cubs won No. 8 from the Indians 13-12 at Tucson Friday with the help of grand slam home runs off two of Cleveland's promising rookie hurlers. Dick Gernert homered with the bases full off Wynn Hawkins in the second inning and Carl Thomas, who had a string of 17 scoreless innings, was tagged for a grand slammer by the Cubs' Frank Thomas in the eighth.

The winning Chicago hit was Tony Taylor's home run with two on, two out and the Cubs one behind in the ninth. That was 400-footer over the mid-centerfield fence on a pitch by Johnny Briggs.

The Indians had five home runs to the Cubs three, with rookie Mike De La Hoaz getting two and Bob Hale getting a pinch homer —all in the eighth inning when Cleveland took a 10-8 lead. Tito Francona and John Romano also had homers for Cleveland.

FIGHT RESULTS

Boston — Dick Tiger, 161, Nigeria, outpointed Victor Zalazar, 161, Argentina, 10.

Caracas, Venezuela — Carlos Hernandez, 137, Venezuela, outpointed Gil Cadilli, 133, Los Angeles, 10.

Melbourne, Australia — Auburn Copeland, 131½, Flint, Mich., outpointed Aldo Pravisani, 133½, Italy, 12.

Hawks-Celtics Resume Cage Playoff Series

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Hawks are first to admit their chances of dethroning Boston in pro basketball's World Series will hinge on their attempt to slow the Celtics lightning fast break triggered by Bob Cousy.

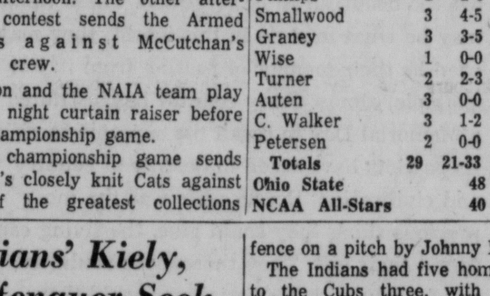

The two bitter rivals go for the tie breaker today in their best-of-seven series after a split of two games in Boston.

The game today will be nationally televised and starts at 2 p.m. EST.

Clyde Lovellette, a 6-foot-9 veteran, and Si Green, cat-like backliner, could be the key players in the Hawks attempt to slow the free-wheeling Celtics.

Cal Hubbard, 59, has been American League umpire supervisor since 1954.

White's, American-Freed's, Gengarellas, Riverview Win

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

Gengarella's, Riverview Florists, American Billiard-Freed's and Francis White Insurance form the semi-final field as another Tri-State tournament champ will be crowned tonight at Memorial Auditorium.

Paired for tonight's two semi-final contests are Gengarellas and White's Insurance at 7:30 while American-Freed's and Riverview meet in the second game at 8 p. m.

Gengarella's, king of the Tri-State tourney for the last three years, will be shooting for its fourth straight title, a feat unprecedented in the 35 year-old history of the tournament.

Riverview Florists crushed Manchester, 67-45, American-Freed's eliminated Varsho's, 85-57, and White's Insurance reached the select circle by dumping Major TV of Steubenville, 87-69.

* * * * * * * * * * * *

Champion To Be Crowned Tonight

The Riverview team, which lists Youngstown University and Westminster talent, was dealt a blow when Westminster College officials announced that Chuckie Davis, the Little All-American standout, would not be permitted to play in any post-season tourneys.

The college even refused Davis permission to play in the Olympic tryouts at Denver this week after he was chosen to the first NAIA team, the squad which upset Ohio State.

Riverview still has such standouts as Mickey Yugovich, Youngstown U's great scorer who tossed in 18 points to lead the way last night; Howie McElroy with 16 and Harold Davis with 14.

Riverview also lost the services of Lenny Nelson, former Muskingum star who injured his knee.

Gengarellas, with the addition of Joe Ashton and Dick Jones who performed with St. Francis College this past season, showed a stronger outfit.

Ashton, who stands close to the 6-foot-5 mark, paced Gengarellas with 18 points while his running mate Jones scored 11 and Maher of Steubenville College added 11. Tell topped Stockton's with 17 points.

American-Freed's, showing probably the rangiest outfit in the tourney with such standouts as Bevo Francis, Miles Witchey and Jim Tucker, rolled to an easy win over Varsho's.

Leading 41-34 at halftime, White's coasted through the second half. Biff Aultman and Hewko shared scoring honors for White's with 16 each while Fannon chipped in with 15.

Jack Cibulka, stellar performer at Steubenville College last season, topped Major TV with 27 markers, top single performance of the evening.

Tonight's championship game should get underway about 10 p. m., followed by the presentation of team and individual trophies.

Tiger Takes Split Decision

BOSTON (AP)—Rugged middleweight Dick Tiger wants a crack at Gene Fullmer, Paul Pender and Sugar Ray Robinson but it looks like he'll have to defend his British Empire championship first.

So said Jersey Jones Friday night after the Nigerian battler hammered out a split 10-round decision over Argentina's Victor Zalazar at the Boston Arena.

Jones, who identifies himself as Tiger's "representative," said in the dressing room "Tiger hasn't defended in just over two years."

"Jones added he had received a cable from Mickey Duff, manager of Terry Downes, for a Liverpool title match "and we may have to go over and take it."

Tiger, shorter, stockier and more muscular than his lanky South American opponent, finished strong Friday night. He dominated the first half of the fight, then had some trouble from the jabbing Zalazar before taking the offense again.

Tiger is the eighth-ranked challenger according to the National Boxing Assn. while Zalazar is unranked.

Referee Jimmy McCarron and Judge Tom McNeeley Sr., scored the fight for the winner, 99-95 and 99-94, while Judge George Flate had it even 96-96 on the Massachusetts 10 points must system. Both fighters weighed 161.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Hawks are first to admit their chances of dethroning Boston in pro basketball's World Series will hinge on their attempt to slow the Celtics lightning fast break triggered by Bob Cousy.

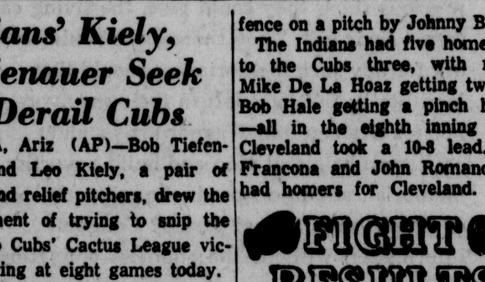

The two bitter rivals go for the tie breaker today in their best-of-seven series after a split of two games in Boston.

The game today will be nationally televised and starts at 2 p.m. EST.

Clyde Lovellette, a 6-foot-9 veteran, and Si Green, cat-like backliner, could be the key players in the Hawks attempt to slow the free-wheeling Celtics.

Cal Hubbard, 59, has been American League umpire supervisor since 1954.

Pirates Labeled NL 'Darkhorse'

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Pittsburgh had the world by the tail in spring training. Not even Manager Danny Murtaugh expects the Pirates to keep up that dazzling winning pace. But he does not concede a thing.

"We were only three games out last Sept. 1," he said. "They can't write us off. A few people picked us last year but we lost the first five and had a hard time getting started again.

"Basically, we are the same ball club, our fortunes lie in the boys who had a bad year coming back to their full potential.

"Bill Mazeroski (.241) dropped from 19 home runs to 7. Dick Groat, had what most shortstops would consider a good year (.275). We had to rest him a little but he came back at the finish. Bill Virdon (.254) tumbled way down there in batting and Bob Skinner (.280) dropped off more than 40 points.

"On the pitching side, Bob Friend fell all the way from 22-14 to 8-19. We think he will be back on the beam this year.

"Lack of power hurt. We had only one consistent long-ball hitter. That was Dick Stuart (.297 and 27 homers)."

Stuart will be on first with Mazeroski at second. Groat at short and Don Hoak (.294) at third. Gene Baker, disabled all last year after a knee operation, has been the talk of the camp. He will fill a utility job and Dick Schofield (.234) will have another. Rocky Nelson (.291) is the reserve first baseman, left-handed pinch hitter and part-time outfielder.

Murtaugh hasn't decided on his regular outfield. Skinner will be in left. He has been working Virdon; Roberto Clemente (.296) and Gino Cimoli (.279 at St. Louis) in both right and center. The man with the hot bat has been rookie Joe Christopher (.301 at Columbus) who seems to have won a job.

Smoky Burgess (.297) and Hal Smith (.288 at Kansas City, who also can play third base, are the first two catchers. Bob Oldis (.294 at Denver) or Danny Kravitz (.253) will be No. 3.

Friend, Vern Law (18-9), and Harvey Haddix (12-12) are the sure-fire starters. Bennie Daniels (7-9) looks like No. 4.

Murtaugh has an ace in the bullpen in Elroy Face (18-1) who won 17 straight and 22 over a two-year span before he finally was beaten by the Dodgers, Sept. 11.

The Pirates were a respectable fourth last year, nine games back. They added Smith and Cimoli and traded away Hank Foiles and Ronnie Kline. They don't have the power to stay with Milwaukee and Cincinnati; they play it close to the vest. It is a team with dark-horse possibilities.

'Feverish' Yanks Shut Out By Reds

By JIM KENSIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

The New York Yankees, with a feverish spring record of 6-14, need something, but a psychologist isn't the answer.

Jim Brosnan, witty writer, professional pitcher and amateur psychologist, proved that Friday. The Cincinnati Reds' right-hander pitched the front seven innings of a 3-0 victory over the Yanks at St. Petersburg. He allowed only four hits.

Brosnan, a five-year major league veteran, has always been a good seven-inning pitcher. But against the Yanks he could have easily worked nine, if Reds Manager Fred Hutchinson hadn't wanted to take another look at Bill Henry and Raul Sanchez. They completed the shutout, the Yanks' sixth loss in their last seven exhibitions.

Brosnan, who has written humorous magazine pieces, is readying his arm for the long game.

He went the route last Sunday in a six-hit, 4-3 victory over the Milwaukee Braves. But with the St. Louis Cardinals and Reds last year he started 10 times and finished only once. His won-lost record was 9-6 and his ERA 3.80 in 116 innings

The Yanks' Casey Stengel must have been envious of the Reds' pitching. His left-handed ace Whitey Ford, gave up one run in three innings, then had to retire because of a head cold.

In other Florida day games, the Detroit Tigers defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 5-1 at Lakeland and the Kansas City A's stopped Pittsburgh 4-3 at Fort Myers.

In night games, Baltimore defeated Washington 3-2 at Miami and the Philadelphia Phillies outslugged the Chicago White Sox 12-11 in the opener of their Puerto Rican series.

The Milwaukee Braves were idle, and Los Angeles was rained out of a game with the dodgertown All-Stars at Vero Beach.

The hits continued to fly in Arizona where the Boston Red Sox beat the San Francisco Giants 8-6 in 10 innings at Phoenix, and the Chicago Cubs outdid the Cleveland Indians 13-12 at Tucson.

Kasko Has Edge Over Jones For Reds' Third Base

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—If you're absorbed in the drama of the Cincinnati Reds efforts to find a first baseman, don't forget there's another spot open, too—third base.

The aspirants for the hot corner are journeymen Eddie Kasko and Willie Jones, and it looks like Kasko has the edge. His hitting this spring has helped.

Kasko showed his worth last season when he filled in at shortstop during the extended injuries of Roy McMillan. He batted .283 and made himself plenty useful.

"I'm not worried" this year, he said. "I feel good. I've been hitting good. I'm confident I can hit and I know I've got to hit to win the job."

His stints last year showed that his hitting got better the more regularly he played.

He said, "I didn't hit too well when I got in the first time McMillan was hurt, but I did hit from August right through the end of the season."

He has held down the third base job before—three years ago at St. Louis when the Reds current manager, Fred Hutchinson, bossed the Cards.

Warfare, Kentucky Derby Favorite, Is Withdrawn

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Kentucky Derby shaped up as a two-horse race today following the sudden withdrawal of Warfare, 1959 two-year-old champion and one of the three top choices for the May 7 running of the $125,000-added turf classic.

It is still five weeks before the 3-year-olds start the 1¼-mile run at Churchill Downs for fame and gold. But the winter and early spring stakes have failed so far to turn up a serious threat to C. V. Whitney's Tompion and Leonard Fruchtman's Bally Ache.

Tompion, current winter book favorite for the derby, and Bally Ache, now the second choice, have not been invincible. But they have come up with the big race in the major stakes. Tompion's major triumph was in the Santa Anita Derby. Bally Ache won the Flamingo at Hialeah Park.

The situation could be changed after today's running of the $100,000-added Florida Derby at Gulfstream Park. Bally Ache is in the race along with Eagle Admiral, Victoria Park and Venetian Way. Eagle Admiral and Victoria Park beat Bally Ache this year in tune-up races, Venetian Way did it in the Washington Park Futurity last year.

Tompion has been keeping in shape on the West Coast. He'll get his final Kentucky Derby prep at Keeneland, probably in the Blue Grass stakes April 28.

Warfare was declared out of the Kentucky Derby and the two other races of the triple crown series, Preakness and Belmont Stakes, when X-rays disclosed a bone chip in his left hind ankle.

West Virginia's All-State Cage Squads Announced

BLUEFIELD (AP) — Big Bill Maphis of Romney dominated the voting in the 32 selections for the four All-West Virginia High School Basketball Teams announced today.

There were more than 800 ballots cast for the honor teams made up of top players from Catholic, Class A, Class AA and Class AAA schools.

The 6-4 Maphis was named captain of the AA team. It was more than sheer coincidence that this big fellow led Romney to the Class AA title only last month.

Other top vote-getters by class included:

AA — Don Smith of Huntington Vinson, Sid Elliot of Mullens and Gary Keedy of Keyser.

A — Frank Alvis of Athens and Larry Miller and Mason Fox of Ansted.

The honor selections were announced by All-State Chairman Stubby Currence, managing editor of the Bluefield Daily Telegraph. The selections:

Gary Keedy, Keyser; Jimmy Wedge, Pt. Pleasant and Warren O'Dell, Lookout.

Class A — Harold Graley, Washington District; Danny Heater, Burnsville; Walter Smittle, Paden City; Mason Fox and Larry Miller, Ansted; Butch Charlton, Barrackville; Mike Chambers, Ravenswood, and Frank Alvis, captain, Athens.

A breakdown shows 18 players from the north and 14 from the south made up the front-line 32 players.

The 800 ballots were received from high school coaches, game officials, sports writers and sportscasters.

Youngstown Pin Star's 720 2nd In ABC Singles

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The standings in nearly all divisions of the 57th American Bowling Congress Tournament were overhauled Friday, but there was only one serious challenge to an established leader.

The most effective barrage of the day was the 236-226-258—720 series which earned Dominic Bertolini of Youngstown, Ohio, second place in singles. He fell just six pins short of overtaking Cleveland's Paul Kulbaga, who shot 726 on March 24.

Earl Johnson of the second-place Chicago Hamms, and Richard Skufca of Cleveland each rolled 693 series to tie for fourth place in the singles.

The one change in the top 10 doubles standings was accomplished by George Wong and Thomas Fukuda of Detroit whose 1,279 gave them a tie for eighth.

Sugar Ray Faces Baldoni Tonight

BALTIMORE (AP)—Sugar Ray Ray Robinson, who says "a birth certificate has never proved anything," matches his aging but lithe body against young and rugged Tony Baldoni tonight in a 10-rounder at the Coliseum.

Robinson, who will be 39 on May 3, has visions of retiring as king of the middleweights — where he has reigned as world titleholder five times past.

The Baldoni scrap is supposed to be a tunup for Sugar Ray's return bout with Paul Pender in Boston April 29. Pender won a split decision from Robinson last Jan. 22 to win the New York-Massachusetts version of the middleweight championship.

Nieporte Leading Golf Event By 5

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Tom Nieporte was in a new and pleasing position going into today's third round of the $15,000 Azalea Open Golf Tournament.

The Bronxville, N.Y., professional, had a five-stroke lead after 36 holes on a 64-68—132 performance through the first two days.

His five-shot edge over runner-up Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., was the biggest halfway lead of the year on the PGA circuit, now 13 tournaments old.

Nieporte, who is not invited to play in next week's Masters Tournament at Augusta, Ga., had nine one-putt greens Friday, bringing his two-round total to 21.

In third place at 138, six hosts off the pace after a second day 71, was Gay Brewer of Crystal River, Fla.

Dave Ragan of Orlando, Fla., and Jerry Barber of Los Angeles, tied for second only three shots behind after the first round both dropped to par 72 for 139 totals and a tie for fourth with Ed Oliver of Denver and Jerry Pittman of Tulsa, Okla.

Mud Forces Ascot To Call Off Races

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Ascot Park gave admission refunds to 9,312 customers Friday, after they had bet $108,878 on two races, and called off its running race inaugural until Monday. Mud made track conditions too dangerous, officials decided.

Mud also forced cancellation of opening day races at Raceway Park in Toledo Friday. An attempt will be made to race there today.

Detroit at Toronto — best-of-7 series tied 2-2

Youngstown Pin Star's 720 2nd In ABC Singles

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The standings in nearly all divisions of the 57th American Bowling Congress Tournament were overhauled Friday, but there was only one serious challenge to an established leader.

The most effective barrage of the day was the 236-226-258—720 series which earned Dominic Bertolini of Youngstown, Ohio, second place in singles. He fell just six pins short of overtaking Cleveland's Paul Kulbaga, who shot 726 on March 24.

Earl Johnson of the second-place Chicago Hamms, and Richard Skufca of Cleveland each rolled 693 series to tie for fourth place in the singles.

The one change in the top 10 doubles standings was accomplished by George Wong and Thomas Fukuda of Detroit whose 1,279 gave them a tie for eighth.

Sugar Ray Faces Baldoni Tonight

BALTIMORE (AP)—Sugar Ray Ray Robinson, who says "a birth certificate has never proved anything," matches his aging but lithe body against young and rugged Tony Baldoni tonight in a 10-rounder at the Coliseum.

Robinson, who will be 39 on May 3, has visions of retiring as king of the middleweights — where he has reigned as world titleholder five times past.

The Baldoni scrap is supposed to be a tunup for Sugar Ray's return bout with Paul Pender in Boston April 29. Pender won a split decision from Robinson last Jan. 22 to win the New York-Massachusetts version of the middleweight championship.

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Tom Nieporte was in a new and pleasing position going into today's third round of the $15,000 Azalea Open Golf Tournament.

Nieporte, who is not invited to play in next week's Masters Tournament at Augusta, Ga., had nine one-putt greens Friday, bringing his two-round total to 21.

In third place at 138, six hosts off the pace after a second day 71, was Gay Brewer of Crystal River, Fla.

Dave Ragan of Orlando, Fla., and Jerry Barber of Los Angeles, tied for second only three shots behind after the first round both dropped to par 72 for 139 totals and a tie for fourth with Ed Oliver of Denver and Jerry Pittman of Tulsa, Okla.

Veteran Given Former 'Rate' For New Hitch

A Navy veteran who enlisted for a new hitch was allowed to retain his former rating of boilerman third class — one of six men who signed up during March at the Navy Recruiting Station at City Hall.

The veteran is Woodrow Lovett Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Lovett of 5th Ave., LaCroft, and husband of the former Miss Lillian Cronin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Cronin, 2117 LaCroft St. Sent to the Naval Receiving Station in Philadelphia, he was assigned to duty aboard the aircraft Valley Forge, which is based at Norfolk, Va. His wife and small daughter will join him in September when he returns from overseas.

Lovett, who has four years' previous service, was allowed to re-enlist at his former rating because it is one now classified as "critical" by the Navy and not more than two years had elapsed since his discharge.

Enlisting together last month were Frederick Paul Fischer, son of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Fischer, 944 Princeton Ave., and Roy Thomas Fitzsimmons, son of Mrs. Olive M. Keener, 629 Riley Ave. Fischer selected the San Diego Training Center for his "boot" training, while Fitzsimmons elected to go to Great Lakes Training Center, near Chicago.

Watching his brother's swearing-in ceremony was William E. Fischer, who enlisted in the Navy in 1958 and now is attached to a jet repair and test shop at Patuxent River, Md., specializing as a jet mechanic. Before enlisting in the Navy, Fred was employed at Golden Star Dairyland. Fitzsimmons attended East Liverpool High School.

Frederick Fischer, like his brother, enlisted in the Navy's aviation field under the high school graduate training program, in which he is assured schooling in the field of his choice for which he is best - qualified.

Fitzsimmons signed for a minority enlistment, which means he will be discharged the day before his 21st birthday. Also signed for a minority enlistment was Gary Keith Apple, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Apple of 9th Ave., LaCroft. He is training at Great Lakes.

Also starting 9 weeks' training at Great Lakes are Gary Stewart Merriman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Merriman of Salineville R. D. 1, and Eugene Clinton Hughes, son of Mrs. Anna H. Hughes of Lisbon St. Hughes signed for a minority enlistment and Merriman enlisted for four years.

Teller Faces Term For Embezzlement

CINCINNATI (AP)—Mrs. Dolly E. Haines, 54, a teller at Dollar Savings & Loan Assn. in Hamilton since 1952, faces a year in prison on her plea of guilty to a charge of embezzling about $6,500 since last October.

Judge John Druffel set the term in U.S. District Court Friday. Her attorney, A. W. Cherney, said Mrs. Haines had supported her mother, a sister with an invalid husband and two nieces and spent none of the money on herself.

Veteran Given Former 'Rate' For New Hitch

A Navy veteran who enlisted for a new hitch was allowed to retain his former rating of boilerman third class — one of six men who signed up during March at the Navy Recruiting Station at City Hall.

The veteran is Woodrow Lovett Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Lovett of 5th Ave., LaCroft, and husband of the former Miss Lillian Cronin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Cronin, 2117 LaCroft St. Sent to the Naval Receiving Station in Philadelphia, he was assigned to duty aboard the aircraft Valley Forge, which is based at Norfolk, Va. His wife and small daughter will join him in September when he returns from overseas.

Lovett, who has four years' previous service, was allowed to re-enlist at his former rating because it is one now classified as "critical" by the Navy and not more than two years had elapsed since his discharge.

Enlisting together last month were Frederick Paul Fischer, son of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Fischer, 944 Princeton Ave., and Roy Thomas Fitzsimmons, son of Mrs. Olive M. Keener, 629 Riley Ave. Fischer selected the San Diego Training Center for his "boot" training, while Fitzsimmons elected to go to Great Lakes Training Center, near Chicago.

Watching his brother's swearing-in ceremony was William E. Fischer, who enlisted in the Navy in 1958 and now is attached to a jet repair and test shop at Patuxent River, Md., specializing as a jet mechanic. Before enlisting in the Navy, Fred was employed at Golden Star Dairyland. Fitzsimmons attended East Liverpool High School.

Frederick Fischer, like his brother, enlisted in the Navy's aviation field under the high school graduate training program, in which he is assured schooling in the field of his choice for which he is best - qualified.

Fitzsimmons signed for a minority enlistment, which means he will be discharged the day before his 21st birthday. Also signed for a minority enlistment was Gary Keith Apple, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Apple of 9th Ave., LaCroft. He is training at Great Lakes.

Also starting 9 weeks' training at Great Lakes are Gary Stewart Merriman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Merriman of Salineville R. D. 1, and Eugene Clinton Hughes, son of Mrs. Anna H. Hughes of Lisbon St. Hughes signed for a minority enlistment and Merriman enlisted for four years.

Teller Faces Term For Embezzlement

CINCINNATI (AP)—Mrs. Dolly E. Haines, 54, a teller at Dollar Savings & Loan Assn. in Hamilton since 1952, faces a year in prison on her plea of guilty to a charge of embezzling about $6,500 since last October.

Judge John Druffel set the term in U.S. District Court Friday. Her attorney, A. W. Cherney, said Mrs. Haines had supported her mother, a sister with an invalid husband and two nieces and spent none of the money on herself.

The World's Greatest Teacher...

BOOKS

By MARK VAN DOREN

In honor of National Library Week, April 3 to 10, this famous educator and writer tells us what reading means to him and can mean to you

Arline Strong.

IN OUR SOCIETY there is no more noticeable difference than the difference between the thoughtful and the unthoughtful person.

The specific, the distinguishing, quality of any person is the quality of his mind. And nothing does more to cultivate the mind than the reading of books.

The ability to read a book is like the ability to listen; it implies a mind that is disciplined to receive and entertain ideas. The good listener has no pride of that wrong sort which assumes that nothing further can be learned.

In the real world, there is always more to learn than even the wisest person will succeed in learning, but the sign of wisdom in him is his recognition of this fact, and his willingness to make the most of his opportunity. The good reader, like the good listener, not only knows how to use his mind; he knows how to change it. No activity is happier than the first of these; nothing is nobler than the second.

What could be more natural than the desire to own a useful or delightful book, to keep it on a private shelf, to mark it up if need be? The wise man borrows books when he has to, buys them when he can.

For it is books that change us most. The young student will listen to his teachers, but they have had their teachers, too: the books by which their intellects were formed. The parent will hope that his son or daughter may find good teachers at college, and, of course, they will be there. However, the master teachers will be the books the students read.

These never change, just as they never diminish in number. They are the everlasting teachers by which the human race has got its education.

Indeed, books stretch our minds—the most elastic thing human beings possess. The youth who forms the habit of letting books alter his thinking will never lose it, though he may exercise it less in later years.

At college, he will be expected to read books as he once read articles or stories; to take in the whole of a long argument or exposition or narrative; to keep the parts of it before him as he reads, and to see them in their natural relation; to live with an author for hours or days or weeks; to venture through new worlds as if he had a right to be there.

The world of college is many worlds, all of which may be new to the young traveler. His passport to the world of books is his desire and his ability to read. He will come back a richer person than before. He may or may not be able to tell his parents what he has seen, but they will be glad he took the journey for it will have made him the independent soul they wanted him to be.

The clearest indication of a truly educated person is the habit of buying and reading books. It is a habit he will cherish as long as he has life.

The World's Greatest Teacher...

BOOKS

By MARK VAN DOREN

In honor of National Library Week, April 3 to 10, this famous educator and writer tells us what reading means to him and can mean to you

Arline Strong.

IN OUR SOCIETY there is no more noticeable difference than the difference between the thoughtful and the unthoughtful person.

The specific, the distinguishing, quality of any person is the quality of his mind. And nothing does more to cultivate the mind than the reading of books.

The ability to read a book is like the ability to listen; it implies a mind that is disciplined to receive and entertain ideas. The good listener has no pride of that wrong sort which assumes that nothing further can be learned.

In the real world, there is always more to learn than even the wisest person will succeed in learning, but the sign of wisdom in him is his recognition of this fact, and his willingness to make the most of his opportunity. The good reader, like the good listener, not only knows how to use his mind; he knows how to change it. No activity is happier than the first of these; nothing is nobler than the second.

What could be more natural than the desire to own a useful or delightful book, to keep it on a private shelf, to mark it up if need be? The wise man borrows books when he has to, buys them when he can.

For it is books that change us most. The young student will listen to his teachers, but they have had their teachers, too: the books by which their intellects were formed. The parent will hope that his son or daughter may find good teachers at college, and, of course, they will be there. However, the master teachers will be the books the students read.

These never change, just as they never diminish in number. They are the everlasting teachers by which the human race has got its education.

Indeed, books stretch our minds—the most elastic thing human beings possess. The youth who forms the habit of letting books alter his thinking will never lose it, though he may exercise it less in later years.

At college, he will be expected to read books as he once read articles or stories; to take in the whole of a long argument or exposition or narrative; to keep the parts of it before him as he reads, and to see them in their natural relation; to live with an author for hours or days or weeks; to venture through new worlds as if he had a right to be there.

The world of college is many worlds, all of which may be new to the young traveler. His passport to the world of books is his desire and his ability to read. He will come back a richer person than before. He may or may not be able to tell his parents what he has seen, but they will be glad he took the journey for it will have made him the independent soul they wanted him to be.

The clearest indication of a truly educated person is the habit of buying and reading books. It is a habit he will cherish as long as he has life.

TEEN-AGERS ARE [illegible] THE MOON

It's science, not romance, that has captured their interest in this age of satellites

By ALFRED BALK

ONCE, IF A YOUTH headed outdoors for an evening of moon-watching, it was strictly the soft-lights and sweet-music variety. These days, however, it's possible there'll be no music but a weird beep-beeping; his closest companions will be a sky chart and telescope; even the moon itself will be different—an earth satellite.

There's a growing craze among teen-agers to moon-gaze. Quite possibly just for fun. But also, to add to their own knowledge and to the nation's as satellite-spotters.

You may have had little interest in the sky until recently. Youngsters probably had even less. But suddenly, after the launching of Explorers and Sputniks and the imminent venture of man himself into space, that's all changed. At schools, libraries, planetariums, or at home, youngsters are forming amateur astronomy groups, scavenging telescopes and other equipment, and learning about outer space.

Some 150 teen-agers, for instance, make up one of the largest clubs, the San Fernando Valley Moon-watch Team in Chatsworth, Calif. So active have they become that cowboy crooner Roy Rogers, mayor of Chatsworth, and his wife Dale Evans have dropped in to catch up on all the news of cowhands on Mars.

An all-teen-age group at Millbrook, N.Y., was watching as eagerly as adult scientists throughout the world for the final tumble of Russia's dog-carrying Sputnik II. Three tracking stations made important sightings of the satellite's last moments—including Millbrook's homemade observatory.

It's the same story across the country. You can't go far without encountering a junior astronomy group. Why?

"There has been tremendous publicity about satellites and space," says Leon Campbell, Jr., of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Laboratory. "Tracking a satellite is a challenging, practical objective." So wholeheartedly have youths pitched in that during the International Geophysical Year more than 500 of the 8,000 official moon-watch personnel were teen-agers, Campbell estimates.

It takes little to start a club these days. Top science students and their teachers, leading amateur astronomers, or engineers and scientists from industry provide the know-how for many such groups. About $50 buys a telescope of acceptable quality. Star maps and guidebooks are available in libraries and at schools, and astronomy magazines report heavenly goings-on.

Civic clubs, business, and industrial firms often help the youths purchase equipment. The San Fernando Valley club, one of the more fortunate, has some $6,000 worth of devices financed by 20 sponsors, ranging from Lockheed Aircraft to a Kiwanis Club.

The base of operation may be a school, museum, observatory—or somebody's yard. In Brooklyn, the public library is headquarters for a club. In Chicago, Adler Planetarium is the site of an all-youth moon-watch team, and in New Orleans, it's Holy Cross High School.

In most cases, with some adult help to get them started, clubs are able to make a little ingenuity go a long way. Millbrook's observatory is nothing but a converted silo top mounted on rollers bought at a hardware store. A 12-inch reflecting telescope was made partly from scrap, its counterbalance from ordinary water pipe; it is turned by a small motor that once controlled drafts on a furnace. Actually, an observatory isn't absolutely necessary—only telescopes, and these need not be expensive.

To some, sky-watching may seem of limited value. Eddie Rickenbacker, however, the famed flyer who almost died on a raft in the Pacific after a plane crash, credits his survival, in part, to knowledge of navigating by the stars.

ASTRONOMY CLUBS have proved tremendous antidelinquency forces. Some also have turned lackadaisical students into interested, hard-working ones. They inspire many by the companionship with bright youths who inevitably join these organizations.

"There's much in astronomy of real interest to youngsters if they're allowed to participate in some way," says Albert Shatzel, director of Chicago's Adler Planetarium. "This is the perfect time to become interested in studying the sky and outer space."

Many junior astronomers later do nothing more scientific than filling a fountain pen, but all find the experience helpful. And some go on to brilliant scientific careers. Clyde Tombaugh, who discovered the planet Pluto in 1930, got interested in astronomy as a youth by peering through a homemade telescope mounted on parts from a cream separator and an old auto.

In any case, there's seldom a dull moment among young moon-watchers. One, getting convention-minded, recently asked his mother, "May I go to the Astronomy Prevention?" Another, explaining where he had been, said, "I was out observating."

That's moon-watching, space-age style!

Want to Be a Moon-Watcher?

It's easy to add astronomy to your list of hobbies. If there's an observatory or planetarium nearby, probably an informal hobby group already exists. If not, science teachers, scientists in industry, or even a librarian who has astronomy books can help you get a club started.

Junior astronomical societies exist in a great many cities, and all welcome new members.

Information about their activities is listed by Sky and Telescope Magazine, Harvard College Observatory, 60 Garden St., Cambridge 38, Mass.; or The Astronomical League, Science Service Building, Washington 6, D.C.

THE NEW ROLE OF THE YOUNG EISENHOWERS

To the President and Mrs. Eisenhower, John's and Barbara's presence makes any affair more gala.

On Ike's tour of India, such moments of "relaxation" were rare.

IN WASHINGTON, D.C., a tall, shy young man leaves the third floor of the White House, where he has spent the night, and goes to work as an assistant White House staff secretary to Brig. Gen. Andrew Goodpaster, who is in charge of liaison between the Presidential offices, the State Department, and the Pentagon.

In Gettysburg, Pa., a tall, slender, dark-haired woman with full hazel eyes and a round smiling face steps out of a simple two-story frame home, a remodeled schoolhouse, to visit the local hospital, where she is a nurse's aide.

These are John and Barbara Eisenhower, the son and daughter-in-law of the President.

Seeing John at this moment, one does not suspect that his are anything but the routine duties of an Army officer assigned to the White House. Yet according to close observers, John, whose opinions carry great weight with his father, plays a major role in the conduct of White House business.

Seeing Barbara at this moment, one does not connect her with the woman who, as her father-in-law's unofficial hostess, danced with ambassadors, dined with premiers and presidents, and had an audience with the Pope.

When I asked John to describe his White House duties, he said simply: "My work involves briefing the President on matters pertaining to national security, assisting in the handling of staff action in this field, and miscellaneous activities which might include assisting in the editing of speeches or acting as a member of the advance party for a Presidential trip."

As an "advance" man, John went with a team of seven others to South America about three weeks in advance of his father's own trip. Then, on Feb. 15, he again went to Latin America, to be based in Buenos Aires, to greet his father and the Presidential party upon their arrival.

In June, when the President leaves for his long-awaited, much-heralded trip to Russia, it is assumed that John, who will be part of his party, will again precede him as "advance man."

These facts, however, are only a small part of the true picture of John Eisenhower's increasingly important White House role. His arrival preceded Sherman Adams' departure by three months. The President, who said of Sherman Adams, "I need him," has transferred some of that need to his own son. Sustaining a much greater loss with the death of John Foster Dulles, Ike has turned to his son to help fill that void, too. In the 16 months that John has been in the White House, he has been the sounding board, the confidant, and, not infrequently, the actual adviser of his father.

Says George A. Horkan, a Middleburg, Va., lawyer and close friend of John since early childhood: "I hate to think of history labeling John only as a pleasant young man when, in reality, he is of substantial value in the White House. His value is double-edged; it consists of his own high capabilities—he thinks clearly and writes well—and of the very fact that he is the President's son. The Presidency is a lonely job. Even high-placed officials 'yes' the President when they should say 'no.' John, on the other hand, is completely frank and is a safe depository of the President's trust."

The habit of confidence between the President and his only son is very old. From the time John was old enough to wash himself, he enjoyed far-ranging bathroom discussions with his father. While John washed and Ike shaved, they discussed everything from military tactics to morals.

Strong, too, is the habit of father and son sharing important public moments. They were together on V-E Day. And when Stalin invited Ike to Russia, John went along as an aide. Asked for a toast, he amazed the five-star generals, marshals, and admirals, who had been toasting each other, by proposing a toast to "the common soldier."

BARBARA, TOO, has newly assumed a public importance. She always has stood in the background—the smiling, gracious member of the first family, with no particular role to play. Now, since accompanying her father-in-law on his 22,000-mile "pilgrimage in quest of peace," she has emerged from the wings and taken a place on the world stage. And, though officially she was not a stand-in for Mamie Eisenhower, that became her role. Everywhere she made a good impression.

Yet behind the glamour is a normal daily life. John, always a hard worker, arrives at his White House office about 7:50 a.m. and leaves around 6:30 p.m. "On occasion," he says, "this gives me the opportunity to visit with friends in the evening, but usually I'm ready for bed."

He tries to harness his time so he can cope with a long working day, meet some of the social demands upon him, and have some fun with his four children—David, 12, Barbara Anne, 11, Susan Elaine, 8, and Mary Jean, 4. "To find time for everything is the trick of the week," he says, "and I'm not entirely successful."

Unable to commute from Washington, he gets home to Gettysburg only on week ends. Until recently, he shared a Washington apartment with a former West Point classmate, then he moved temporarily into a room on the third floor of the White House. "I have had no occasion to make other arrangements, since I am away very much of the time on trips," he says.

Barbara, "a weekday widow," has become part of the Gettysburg community. She is a Red Cross worker, an activity that grew out of her work in the Junior League in Washington. She also took a three-week course as a nurse's aide and now contributes a full day every two weeks to the local hospital.

When John is at Gettysburg, Barbara and he entertain informally, usually buffet-style. They may have dinner parties of eight to ten people, usually Army friends.

When the children have parties, John makes sure that the parties are simple. He wants no child to be able to point to some expensive gift and say, "See what I got at the Eisenhowers'."

Barbara has only part-time help with the housework. She likes to sew but says she never has time for it. She enjoys cooking, too, and does her own.

As for the children, "All four are individualists," Barbara says. "David's main interest is sports, whatever is in season. Anne takes ballet lessons, and Susan rides horseback. The two older children—David and Anne—also ride horseback, but less enthusiastically. Anne is taking violin lessons, and all the children are fond of the piano."

John has entrusted the details of child-rearing to Barbara and steps in only when there is need for stern discipline. As parents, they are permissive—up to a point. Ultimately, however, the children must do as they are told.

An only child himself, John wanted a large family. Overprotected in his own childhood, he also wanted his children to be given independence. And because their grandfather's house is the White House, he has tried to keep them as far from the spotlight as possible. Following the birth of Mary Jean, a reporter asked John whether he would have preferred to have her born at the White House rather than at Walter Reed Hospital. Somewhat testily, he replied that the White House could hardly match Walter Reed's obstetrical facilities.

With Grandpa and Grandma Eisenhower, the children, especially David, enjoy a gay camaraderie. They see Barbara's parents, the Percy Thompsons, who now live in Gainesville, Fla., less often but nonetheless enthusiastically.

Thirteen years of marriage now are behind the younger Eisenhowers. They met after the war while John was serving with the occupation forces in Vienna. One night at a supper party, he met one of the 12 American girls working in the city—Barbara Jean Thompson, daughter of an Army colonel and, by her own description, "the only CAF-1 (a typist of the lowest rank) in the whole European theater." They began to see a great deal of each other, and soon John sent Mamie a cable asking her to ship a miniature of his West Point class ring.

John's parents knew what that request meant, although he had not mentioned Barbara in his letters. Ike had similarly ordered a class ring in his own courtship of Mamie. Some weeks later, the Eisenhowers received a transatlantic telephone call from John, introducing them to their future daughter-in-law.

JOHN AND BARBARA enjoy a good marriage, not only because they have a great deal in common, but also because they balance each other. She is more outgoing and less inhibited than he. John has never been an athlete, though he likes golf and frequently plays with his father at Burning Tree Country Club near Washington and in Gettysburg. Barbara is a good sportswoman and likes to play golf, swim, play tennis, and ride horseback. "She's not a small-town girl," says George Horkan, "but she's also no Long Island sophisticate."

The nation's first family takes a cruise. Dad and Grandma hold Mary Jean, 4; next are Susan Elaine, 8, Mommy, and David, 12; Barbara Anne, 11, stands next to Grandpa.

value is double-edged; it consists of his own high capabilities—he thinks clearly and writes well—and of the very fact that he is the President's son. The Presidency is a lonely job. Even high-placed officials 'yes' the President when they should say 'no.' John, on the other hand, is completely frank and is a safe depository of the President's trust."

The habit of confidence between the President and his only son is very old. From the time John was old enough to wash himself, he enjoyed far-ranging bathroom discussions with his father. While John washed and Ike shaved, they discussed everything from military tactics to morals.

Strong, too, is the habit of father and son sharing important public moments. They were together on V-E Day. And when Stalin invited Ike to Russia, John went along as an aide. Asked for a toast, he amazed the five-star generals, marshals, and admirals, who had been toasting each other, by proposing a toast to "the common soldier."

BARBARA, TOO, has newly assumed a public importance. She always has stood in the background—the smiling, gracious member of the first family, with no particular role to play. Now, since accompanying her father-in-law on his 22,000-mile "pilgrimage in quest of peace," she has emerged from the wings and taken a place on the world stage. And, though officially she was not a stand-in for Mamie Eisenhower, that became her role. Everywhere she made a good impression.

Yet behind the glamour is a normal daily life. John, always a hard worker, arrives at his White House office about 7:50 a.m. and leaves around 6:30 p.m. "On occasion," he says, "this gives me the opportunity to visit with friends in the evening, but usually I'm ready for bed."

He tries to harness his time so he can cope with a long working day, meet some of the social demands upon him, and have some fun with his four children—David, 12, Barbara Anne, 11, Susan Elaine, 8, and Mary Jean, 4. "To find time for everything is the trick of the week," he says, "and I'm not entirely successful."

Unable to commute from Washington, he gets home to Gettysburg only on week ends. Until recently, he shared a Washington apartment with a former West Point classmate, then he moved temporarily into a room on the third floor of the White House. "I have had no occasion to make other arrangements, since I am away very much of the time on trips," he says.

Barbara, "a weekday widow," has become part of the Gettysburg community. She is a Red Cross worker, an activity that grew out of her work in the Junior League in Washington. She also took a three-week course as a nurse's aide and now contributes a full day every two weeks to the local hospital.

When John is at Gettysburg, Barbara and he entertain informally, usually buffet-style. They may have dinner parties of eight to ten people, usually Army friends.

When the children have parties, John makes sure that the parties are simple. He wants no child to be able to point to some expensive gift and say, "See what I got at the Eisenhowers'."

Barbara has only part-time help with the housework. She likes to sew but says she never has time for it. She enjoys cooking, too, and does her own.

As for the children,"All four are individualists," Barbara says. "David's main interest is sports, whatever is in season. Anne takes ballet lessons, and Susan rides horseback. The two older children—David and Anne—also ride horseback, but less enthusiastically. Anne is taking violin lessons, and all the children are fond of the piano."

John has entrusted the details of child-rearing to Barbara and steps in only when there is need for stern discipline. As parents, they are permissive—up to a point. Ultimately, however, the children must do as they are told.

An only child himself, John wanted a large family. Overprotected in his own childhood, he also wanted his children to be given independence. And because their grandfather's house is the White House, he has tried to keep them as far from the spotlight as possible. Following the birth of Mary Jean, a reporter asked John whether he would have preferred to have her born at the White House rather than at Walter Reed Hospital. Somewhat testily, he replied that the White House could hardly match Walter Reed's obstetrical facilities.

With Grandpa and Grandma Eisenhower, the children, especially David, enjoy a gay camaraderie. They see Barbara's parents, the Percy Thompsons, who now live in Gainesville, Fla., less often but nonetheless enthusiastically.

Thirteen years of marriage now are behind the younger Eisenhowers. They met after the war while John was serving with the occupation forces in Vienna. One night at a supper party, he met one of the 12 American girls working in the city—Barbara Jean Thompson, daughter of an Army colonel and, by her own description, "the only CAF-1 (a typist of the lowest rank) in the whole European theater." They began to see a great deal of each other, and soon John sent Mamie a cable asking her to ship a miniature of his West Point class ring.

John's parents knew what that request meant, although he had not mentioned Barbara in his letters. Ike had similarly ordered a class ring in his own courtship of Mamie. Some weeks later, the Eisenhowers received a transatlantic telephone call from John, introducing them to their future daughter-in-law.

JOHN AND BARBARA enjoy a good marriage, not only because they have a great deal in common, but also because they balance each other. She is more outgoing and less inhibited than he. John has never been an athlete, though he likes golf and frequently plays with his father at Burning Tree Country Club near Washington and in Gettysburg. Ike and John always have been unusually close to each other.

John's thoughts and perceptions go deeper than Barbara's. He has a scholarly interest in the Civil War. His conversation revolves largely about international affairs.

As man and wife, the young Eisenhowers have successfully solved the problems of being members of America's first family. As one member of the cabinet put it, "They don't seek the spotlight, but they don't retreat from it, either, as many White House children have done."

In nine months, the spotlight will shift, and they will be "private" citizens. When I asked John what new course his career will take, his answer was a laconic "unknown at this time."

But this much is known: the Army was never John's sole interest for a career.

At the age of 18, in fact, he was faced with a choice of three careers. His own inclination was to become a writer or newspaperman. His uncle Edgar, a prominent attorney, told him he would make a fine lawyer. And there was the lure of an Army career like that of his father.

At this crucial time in his son's life, Ike urged John to consider the choices seriously and make up his own mind—even though, in his heart, Ike always wanted his only son to be a soldier. Years before, he had persuaded John to do special exercises to strengthen his weak feet, having in mind a future physical examination for West Point.

THE CLUE to John's ultimate decision can be found in a father-son conversation at Fort Lewis, Wash., just before he was graduated from high school. Ike was then 50, a regimental executive officer—so completely unknown to the public that his picture in a local newspaper had been captioned "Lt. Col. D. C. Eisenboing."

Ike told his son that he didn't expect to go much farther in his own career. But he also expressed deep contentment. In the Army he had found good friends and a good life.

"No man," Ike told John, "could ask for more."

John decided to go to West Point.

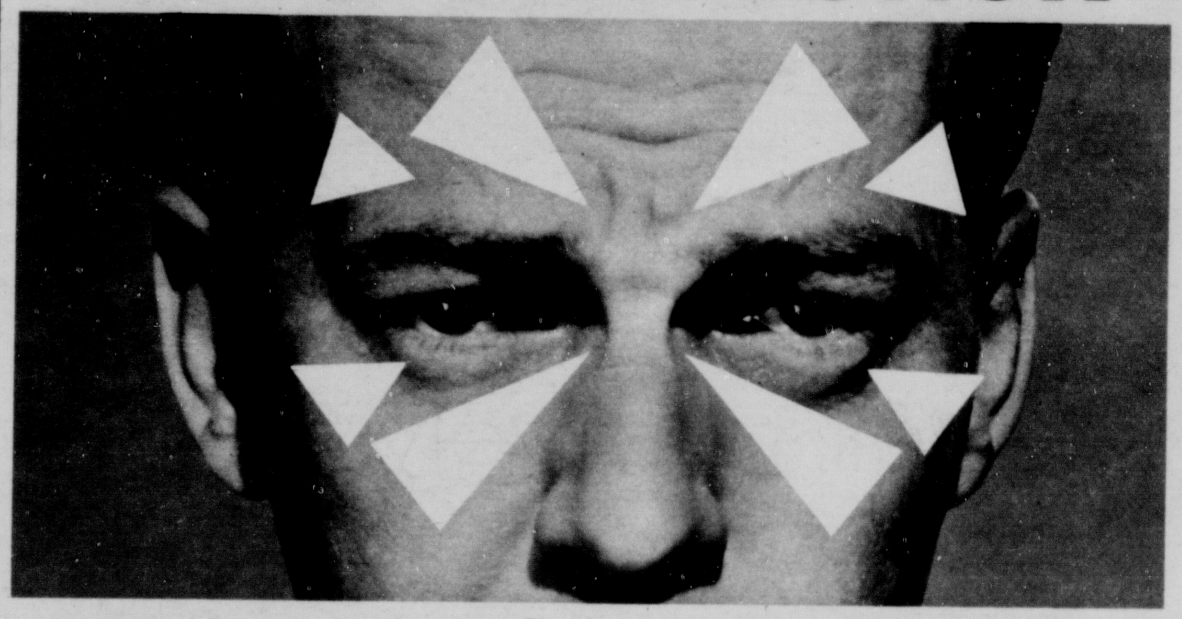

His West Point yearbook later said of him: "Another four-star general? Maybe. But he wants to be a writer. He'd make a good one." And it is generally agreed that John, with his probing, scholarly turn of mind, is more like his uncle Milton, the educator, than any other member of the Eisenhower family, including the President himself.

It is this potpourri of early, conflicting tendencies that makes John a more complicated and richer personality than he would otherwise be. It is these tendencies, too, that give him the scope that has made him one of his father's important advisers.

Not impossibly, these tendencies will lead Maj. John Eisenhower—private citizen—toward a significant future of his own. Not impossibly, after 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue ceases to be the address of his parents, we shall hear of him and Barbara in their own right.

3. Cream butter and vanilla extract together until butter is softened.

4. Combine egg and sugar substitute; beat until mixture is thick and piled softly. Add beaten egg in thirds to creamed mixture, beating thoroughly after each addition. Mixing until blended after each addition, alternately add dry ingredients in fourths and applesauce in thirds to creamed mixture. Stir in the raisins and walnuts. Spoon into prepared muffin-pan wells, filling wells one-half to two-thirds full.

5. Bake at 375°F 15 to 20 min., or until a wooden pick inserted in center of cake comes out clean. 2 doz. teacakes

For Applesauce*—Wash, quarter, core, and pare 3 medium-size apples. Put into a saucepan with 3 tablespoons water. Cover and simmer 10 to 15 min., or until apples are tender; stir occasionally. Press through a sieve or food mill. Cool.

LOW-CALORIE SALAD DRESSING

305 cal.; 19 cal./tablespoon

Much too good to be classed as a "substitute"!

TO PREPARE: 20 MIN.

- 2 eggs
- ½ cup reconstituted nonfat dry milk (use double amount of milk solids)
- 1 teaspoon Accent
- ½ teaspoon paprika
- ½ teaspoon dry mustard
- 2 drops Tabasco
- ¼ cup cider vinegar

1. Beat eggs slightly in top of a double boiler. Blend in nonfat dry milk, Accent, paprika, mustard, and Tabasco. Place over simmering water. Add vinegar gradually, stirring constantly. Cook over simmering water and continue stirring until mixture thickens, about 10 min.

2. Remove from heat. Cool. Store salad dressing in tightly covered jar in refrigerator. About 1 cup dressing

Note: For a less sharp dressing, decrease vinegar to 2 tablespoons and increase milk to ½ cup plus 2 tablespoons.

CHERRY DESSERT MOLD

66 cal./serving

TO PREPARE: 25 MIN. TO CHILL: 3–4 HRS.

- 1 1-lb. can dietetic-packed light, sweet cherries, drained (reserve liquid)
- 4 teaspoons low-calorie cherry-flavored gelatin
- ¾ cup water
- ¼ cup lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon non-caloric sweetening solution or 8 non-caloric sweetening tablets, crushed

1. Add enough water to the reserved cherry liquid to make 1 cup liquid. Heat until very hot.

2. Put gelatin into a bowl. Pour hot liquid over gelatin, stirring until gelatin is completely dissolved. Stir in the water, lemon juice, and sweetener.

3. Chill in refrigerator or over ice and water until gelatin mixture is slightly thicker than consistency of thick, unbeaten egg white. If chilled in refrigerator, stir occasionally; if chilled over ice and water, stir frequently.

4. Lightly oil a 1-qt. mold with salad or cooking oil (not olive oil); drain.

5. Cut the drained cherries into halves and remove the pits. When gelatin mixture is of desired consistency, blend in the cherries. Turn into prepared mold and chill until firm, 3 to 4 hrs.

6. Unmold onto chilled serving plate. Garnish with galax or grape leaves. 4 servings

Note: Other flavored gelatin such as raspberry, strawberry, or lemon may be substituted for the cherry-flavored gelatin.

CHICKEN MOLD

138 cal./serving

TO PREPARE: 25 MIN. TO CHILL: 2–3 HRS.

- ¼ cup cold water
- 1 tablespoon (1 env.) unflavored gelatin
- 1 cup quick chicken broth (use 1 chicken bouillon cube to 1 cup hot water)
- 2 teaspoons lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon grated onion
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon celery salt
- 2 cups ground cooked chicken
- ½ cup Low-Calorie Salad Dressing
- ¼ cup finely chopped celery
- 2 tablespoons minced parsley
- 2 tablespoons minced pimiento

1. Pour cold water into a small cup or custard cup. Sprinkle gelatin evenly over water. Let stand about 5 min. to soften.

2. Heat chicken broth until very hot. Immediately add softened gelatin, stirring until gelatin is completely dissolved. Blend in the lemon juice, onion, salt, and celery salt.

3. Chill in refrigerator or over ice and water until gelatin mixture is slightly thicker than consistency of thick, unbeaten egg white. If chilled in refrigerator, stir occasionally; if chilled over ice and water, stir frequently.

4. Lightly oil a 1-qt. mold with salad or cooking oil (not olive oil); drain.

5. When gelatin mixture is of desired consistency, blend in the chicken and remaining ingredients. Turn mixture into prepared mold. Chill until firm, 2 to 3 hrs.

6. Unmold onto chilled serving plate. Garnish with tomato wedges and parsley. 8 servings

Simone Signoret and Yves Montand:

America Discovers a Unique French Couple

She's so talented she might just upset tradition and win an Oscar, while her husband's so magnetic he even captivates audiences that can't understand him

By PEER J. OPPENHEIMER

"If Simone Signoret doesn't win an Oscar for her performance in 'Room at the Top,' I'll eat my hat," says Joe Pasternak.

Joe is not a publicist, not even a close friend of Simone, the French star whose refreshingly mature sex appeal has captivated American audiences. Pasternak is, however, one of Hollywood's shrewdest producers and often expresses the opinion of fellow workers.

He also may be a man about to learn how a hat tastes.

No matter how highly Miss Signoret is regarded by fans and professionals, she stands only an outside chance to grab an Oscar Monday night. That she is among the most deserving contenders, no one in Hollywood denies, but in the selection of the annual Academy Award winners there's a great deal of politics and publicity involved which can sway the vote for or against.

In Miss Signoret's case, it's mostly against. An Oscar is rarely awarded to a foreign film, and Simone's picture, "Room at the Top," was an English production.

Of course, "Room at the Top" also is the kind of picture that is usually shown only in metropolitan "art houses" and rarely makes money. Yet it has already grossed over $3 million by being shown in almost every city in America with more than three theaters! So maybe there's still another tradition-smashing surprise coming for a surprising picture and its star.

Even Miss Signoret is somewhat baffled by her overnight success in America.

"I was sun-bathing on the Riviera a few months ago," says Simone, "when an American from Wichita, Kan., walked up to me to let me know how much he enjoyed me in 'Room at the Top.' I have been recognized by people who saw the film in towns I've never even heard of! This never happened when I appeared in French films which were shown in the United States, no matter how good the notices were."

At 39—she looks 35 and refers to herself as "fortyish"—Simone was no overnight success in France, where she had dreamed of becoming an actress since she was eight years old.

The dream remained a dream until 1940 when she found herself in occupied Paris, heading a household consisting of herself, her mother, and a brother. Her father had fled to England to fight for de Gaulle and the Allies. To help support the family, she became an extra in the film studios and began an unspectacular but steady climb to fame. In the past 20 years, she's made 16 pictures and won one French and three English equivalents of our Oscar.

Ten years ago, she was supposed to come to the United States for a contract with Howard Hughes. "It was a bit embarrassing," she admits with a smile, "because I never showed up, or even replied to his request. And now he lives in a bungalow adjoining ours!"

Simone still insists she has no ambition to become a big star, in the Hollywood

BACKACHE & NERVE TENSION

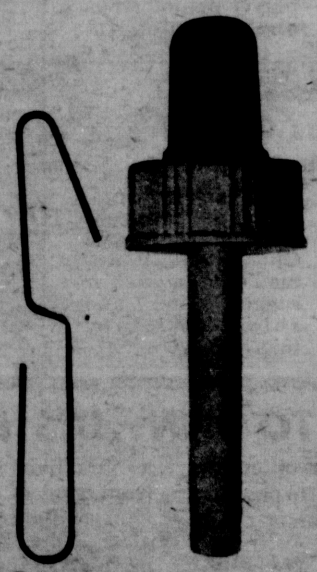

NEW YORK—Recent scientific discoveries by one of America's leading research laboratories have revealed that thousands of men and women may be suffering from backache and nervous tension needlessly. Many people who suffer from backache, nervousness, and nervous tension may be suffering from a condition known as "Bladder Weakness"—caused by the kidneys or bladder not working properly. Symptoms of Bladder Weakness may include backache, nervousness, burning, scanty or frequent urination, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, dizziness, and headaches. Many people suffering from backache and nervousness may not realize that their trouble is caused by Bladder Weakness. Cystex (pronounced Sis-tex) is a scientifically balanced combination of ingredients which works through the kidneys to relieve Bladder Weakness. Cystex starts to work in 15 minutes, and is guaranteed to satisfy completely in one day or money back. Don't suffer needlessly. Get Cystex today at druggist. Feel better fast.

Simone analyzes her popularity today by saying that the American public is tired of seeing baby-doll type leading ladies. By being an attractive, mature woman, Simone seems to reassure women in her own age group that they are not too old to interest men. And men seem to like her because she doesn't make a kittenish game out of love, but is candid and direct.

The same straightforwardness and maturity have made her popular in Hollywood. I first met her at a party given by Marilyn Monroe for Simone's husband, Yves Montand (who is Marilyn's costar in "Let's Make Love"), and a second time at her hotel bungalow, next door to Marilyn and her husband, playwright Arthur Miller.

I asked Simone if she was jealous of Yves playing opposite Marilyn and other glamour girls.

"Oh no, I like Marilyn very much," she replied. "Of course, I don't know what he does when we are separated, as we were when I made 'Room at the Top' in London and he costarred with Gina Lollobrigida in Rome. But I'm sure he behaved very well. I have never read anything in the papers about him going out with any other women, or behaving in any way that might do me harm."

A conventional answer, isn't it? Yet Simone and Yves did not meet "conventionally." Nor is their conversation about themselves conventional most of the time.

They met 11 years ago in the south of France. Yves was there on tour and Simone on vacation. She was married to director Marc Allegret, but it was love at first sight for her and Yves. As far as Simone was concerned, there was only one way to settle the matter. "I left Marc," she says bluntly. Allegret gave her a divorce and custody of their daughter, Catherine, now 14.

in their household, and she takes them. That's why she wears no make-up, except a trace of eye shadow. She used to wear lipstick until Yves took soap and water one day and scrubbed it off. He was exasperated because it always looked smudged.

Nevertheless, Simone is an independent woman. Recently, she refused a Paris picture offer, partly because it would separate her from Yves, but mostly because "it was a bad script."

"If I had a choice between a good script and staying with Yves, I'd take the script!" she says with customary candor. "Unfortunately, there are so few good scripts."

Simone, who maintains she isn't a "dedicated" wife and never sacrifices anything for her husband, nevertheless seems to keep her magnetic husband contented. As Yves puts it—and he has been divorced, too—"I can't see myself married to any other woman!"

Yves, also 39, started entertaining as a volunteer cabaret singer in the waterfront district of Marseilles where he worked as a longshoreman—and, in a turnabout, as a ladies' hairdresser!

Italian-born but a resident of France since he was two, Yves had always wanted to perform for an audience. As a boy, he imitated Donald Duck and Mickey Mouse on street corners. His first public performance as an adult was at the Alcazar, a rough-and-tumble Marseilles music hall.

The audience knew him, liked him, and Yves was on his way at 18. During the German occupation of France, he sang in small music halls and suburban cinemas, working on the docks when engagements were too few.

Arriving in Paris in June, 1944, Yves sang at the famous Moulin Rouge, where he met Edith Piaf, who was so impressed that she put him in his first film in 1945. It was not until 1951 that Montand presented the first of his now-famous one-man shows which made him the idol of Paris. His single show ran six months, and he traveled all over Europe and South America. The fact that he always did his complete show in French speaks volumes for Montand's electric personality and talented pantomime.

ALTHOUGH YVES' and Simone's careers have been kept apart deliberately, she has helped her husband in one area—his English. When Yves arrived here several months ago, he didn't speak a word of English. Nor was he known to American audiences. Simone was, thanks to "Room at the Top," and she knew the language.

"To help him out," Simone recalls ruefully, "I would attend press interviews set up for him. There was a tendency among American reporters to consider Yves as Mr. Simone Signoret. He didn't like it—he didn't like it at all!"

What annoyed Simone most were the questions put to him. "They were so peculiar! Like, was he an opera singer? Or was he another Sinatra? Or Como, or Chevalier? I couldn't wait for his opening night. I didn't even care if it was a success. I just wanted them to see for themselves what my husband was. And they did. Everything changed after his first one-man show."

Praised by public and critics, "Room at the Top" starred Simone Signoret and British Laurence Harvey.

Montand's magic spellbound critics at his New York debut last September, and theatergoers were still lined up at the ticket office when other commitments forced him to move on. Judging by this success and the praise from his movie director, George Cukor, it's doubtful that Yves will ever be known as "Mr. Simone Signoret" again!

That, in itself, is quite an achievement for Montand because, regardless of where Oscar goes tomorrow, he's married to an actress who seems destined to overshadow many of today's stars.

Indoor Fishing Game

By Evelyn P. Johnson

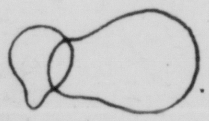

Here's a game called "Indoor Fishing." Cut a couple of dozen fish shapes from heavy paper or cardboard. Number them. Attach a piece of string about three feet long to the head of each fish with a strip of cellophane tape. Put all the fish, numbered side down, in a clothes basket or big box with the strings hanging over the side. Put in a few extra strings with no fish on them so some players will pull up an empty hook. Then take turns pulling a string from the basket. Players count the numbers on their fish, and the one with the highest score wins.

Three in a Row

By Evelyn Pickering

This familiar game is played just as it is on paper, only boys and girls are used instead of X's in squares! Three rows of chairs are set up, with three chairs in each row. Players divide into two teams. First, one person on one team sits in a chair. Then someone from the other team sits in another chair. Teams alternate turns with each player trying to sit so his team will have three members sitting in a row as in ticktacktoe.
